SUMMARY : POPULATION, PRODUCTS, VALUATION, AND TAXATION. (One presentation.)

The provisions of Chap. 181, Acts of 1884, commonly known as the Census Law, relating to the gathering of statistics of manufactures, the fisheries, and commerce, were as follows :

SECTION 1. The decennial census of the Commonwealth required by articles twenty-one and twenty-two of the amendments to the constitution, and the decennial census of the industries of the Commonwealth, shall be taken in the year eighteen hundred and eighty-five, and in every tenth year thereafter, under the direction of the bureau of statistics of labor, by enumerators to be appointed by said bureau as hereinafter provided.

SECT. 2. The information sought by the census shall be gathered on eight general schedules, as follows :— * * * Schedule number two to manufactures. * * *

SECT. 3. * * * The statistics to be gathered by schedules number two * * * shall relate to the facts called for on the same for the year ending the thirtieth day of June of each census year, and so far as property relating to such facts is concerned as it exists on the said thirtieth day of June.

SECT. 6. In making returns under schedule number one, the enumerators shall make and transmit with such returns a complete list of all establishments engaged in manufacturing * * * ; and upon such list the statistics required by schedules numbered two * * * shall be gathered by said bureau, by mail, and of such parties who fail to make returns by mail by such of the enumerators appointed under section four as said bureau may designate.

SECT. 8. * * * all other schedules must be certified to by the parties making them.

SECT. 11. * * * no use shall be made of the names of individuals, firms or corporations supplying the information called for by this act, such information being deemed confidential, and not for the purpose of disclosing any person's affairs, and any enumerator or employé of said bureau violating this provision, shall be fined as provided for in the succeeding section for wilful deceit and falsehood.

SECT. 12. * * * if any person shall refuse to give the information required by this act to a person authorized to collect the same, he shall pay a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars for every such refusal.

SECT. 13. All fines charged under this act may be recovered in any court of competent jurisdiction by information or complaint of the attorney-general, and shall accrue wholly to the Commonwealth.

The asterisks indicate the omission of matter not connected with the kind of statistics under discussion.

The original and distinguishing provision in the law previously quoted was that which required that the schedules relating to manufactures, the fisheries, and commerce, should be sent to the parties, legally liable to make a return, by mail, and, after being filled out, returned by mail to the Census office. This change in the manner of obtaining industrial statistics was suggested by the manufacturers themselves. They expressed themselves as being willing to send the desired information direct to the Census office, but objected to giving it to enumerators, claiming that they were obliged to disclose their private business to residents of their own cities and towns. The practical result of this method of procedure is considered, hereinafter, in detail. To the change from the employment of agents to the mail system is due, more than to anything else, the late appearance of this volume.

To carry out the provisions of the law most explicit instructions were given to the enumerators. To show their comprehensive nature the following instructions are reprinted from the "Enumerator's Book," the original paragraph numbers, 52-56, being retained :

52. — Manufacturers. Those who make articles in shops, factories, or mills are called by the general term, Manufacturers. They may not make the whole of an article, but if their work contributes to the completion of the article they are manufacturers. As you are called upon to enter on Schedule No. 1, the facts concerning every person carrying on any kind of business in your Enumeration District, it will not take you long to decide upon those who should be classified as manufacturers. In order to obtain the population you must not miss any part of any square, street, lane, alley, court, or road. You must be particularly careful in the case of a large block fronting on several streets, or with several entrances. Thus covering every building in your work of enumerating the people you have no reason for omitting from your Name and Address Lists the facts desired concerning any person, firm, or corporation engaged in the kinds of business above named. No person manufacturing any description of goods should be omitted from the Lists, and no omissions should be made on account of the small value of the manufactured articles. No manufactory, however small, should be passed over.

53. — Manufacturers and Dealers. Many persons and firms engaged principally in buying and selling goods have also certain articles that they manufacture. You should visit all Dealers likely, in your opinion, to be engaged in manufacturing, and of them the special inquiry should always be made as to whether they are also Manufacturers. Manufacturing is often carried on in houses, and a careful lookout, especially in large cities, will be necessary to discover all such manufacturers.

54. — Location of Mills, Factories, etc. Very often the office or salesroom is in another building than the mill, factory, or workshop. It will often occur that the office or salesroom is in one Enumerator's District, while the mill, factory, or workshop may be in another Enumerator's District. In some cases the manufactory is in one city and the office in another. One general rule will prevent mistakes: in all such cases the Enumerator whose District contains the Mill, Factory, or Workshop, or the building where the goods are made, should return the Name and Address on his List.

55. — What are Manufactures? We have given a definition of a Manufacturer. It is impossible to enumerate here the different articles made in the Commonwealth in order to guide you in your work, but you would derive less benefit from such a list, however complete, than from the last three lines of Instruction 52. Every manufacturer, whatever the kind of goods made and whatever the value of product annually, is to be entered on your Lists.

56. — Cards, Price Lists, etc. In order to show the articles made by each manufacturer you should obtain from each person, firm, or corporation a card, bill-head, circular, price list, catalogue, or any printed material showing the names of articles, manufactured by said person, firm, or corporation. These cards, price lists, etc., should be numbered by you, bearing the List Number at the left of the List, which is on the same line as the Name, etc., of the person, firm, or corporation. If only one kind of goods is made enter the exact name in every such case. Use the general term for the industry when a variety of articles are made by one person, firm, or corporation.

A perusal of these instructions to enumerators will show that every precaution was taken by the Census office to secure from the enumerators complete lists of all individuals, firms, or corporations, engaged in manufactures, the fisheries, or commerce.

But few of the enumerators complied with the provisions of Inquiry 56. If the cards, etc., had been sent in as requested they would have materially aided the office in its work of classification.

In the preparation of the schedules a strict conformity was made to the law. A circular letter to each party to whom a schedule was sent was printed upon the first page of each schedule, the following explicit and explanatory language being used:

To comply with the Laws of the Commonwealth, as given for your information below, you are called upon to answer the inquiries made in this Schedule. All instructions necessary for your guidance will be found upon pages facing the questions, and you are requested to read them carefully before filling in any of the answers. Any person authorized by you may write in the particulars.

This Schedule is one of a series of eight used in taking the Decennial Census and Industrial Statistics of the Commonwealth. By Chap. 181, Acts of 1884, this Bureau was vested with authority to take the Industrial Statistics for 1885. The object of Schedule No. 2 is to ascertain the products and condition of Manufactures in the Commonwealth for the year ending June 30, 1885, the values of manufacturing property as they existed on June 30, 1885, and also to show the increase or decrease in production and property as compared with the Statistics of Manufactures for 1875.

By Sect. 6 of the Census law it is provided that Schedule No. 2 shall be sent by mail to manufacturers, and returned by them, by mail, to this Bureau. This provision enables manufacturers to make returns without annoyance and at their leisure, and without disclosing information concerning their business to Enumerators or individuals of the locality. In case the Schedules are not filled and returned by mail, the Bureau is empowered to send Enumerators to obtain such Schedules.

It will be the duty of the Bureau as regards Schedules sent in by mail to require the completion of your return if it be defective, and its correction if it be erroneous. Black ink should be used in writing, in all cases where possible. Replies written in pencil will be accepted, if the writing is firm and legible.

It is intended that every Manufacturer, whatever the kind of goods made or productive work done, should receive and fully fill out one of these Schedules, no matter how small the quantity or value of product annually.

It is of importance to every one engaged in developing the manufacturing resources of the Commonwealth that the fullest and most correct return possible should be obtained from each manufacturer, or other recipient of this Schedule; and no manufacturer, or employer engaged in a mechanical trade, should allow himself to perform his duty in a careless or imperfect manner.

To facilitate tabulation in the office, it is desirable that you should keep this Schedule in good condition, and avoid tearing, folding (except one fold lengthwise, as mailed), or soiling it.

The facts supplied by you are not to be used as the basis of any system of taxation, or other liability, and the information secured will be presented in the Census Abstract by figures only, the names of persons in no case being printed. The Bureau and Enumerator are bound by law to consider your answers in this Schedule as STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL, and they will be examined only by the clerks in this office who prepare the returns for printing.

Certain of the Inquiries indicate plainly that the answer should give the condition, or the facts, as they existed June 30, 1885. Such Inquiries usually relate to Manufacturing Property such as Land, Buildings, Machinery, Implements, Capital Invested, Motive Power, etc. In the case of all other Inquiries, the replies should cover the entire CENSUS YEAR, which began July 1, 1884, and which ended June 30, 1885.

Each article made, kind of work done, stock or material used, and each kind of Manufacturing Property, must be enumerated BY ITS OWN NAME. We cannot accept returns with the words "miscellaneous," "sundries," "not otherwise enumerated," or any other unmeaning and statistically valueless designation.

This Schedule was mailed [Date.] to your address. Twenty Days from above Date will be allowed you in which to make your return and mail same, in accompanying postpaid envelope, to this office.

All parties filling out this Schedule must certify that the answers are correct. This is required by law, and a form for signature will be found at the foot of this page. Your post office address must be given so that we may communicate with you by mail in case any error or omission is found in your Schedule.

To aid those to whom schedules were sent in filling in the answers, both general and special instructions were prepared by the Census office and printed in the schedule itself.

The general instructions are given below, in full. The special instructions, when it is deemed advisable, are given with the analysis of particular presentations.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS.

Census Day, and Year.—The Census Day is June 30, 1885. The Census Year began July 1, 1884, and ended June 30, 1885. Present time means the Census Day. In the answers to certain of the Inquiries the element of time is not necessary; in some the condition or facts on the Census Day are required, and in others for the Census Year. Which time is intended is plainly shown by exact statements or by direct implication.

Money Values.—Money values should be given in Dollars only, omitting all cents or fractions of dollars, excepting in the case of Inquiries as to prices and wages. For instance, $38,629.89 should be written $38,630. In all cases where the number of cents is 50 or over, increase the dollars by one, as above. If the cents number less than 50, omit them entirely. It is evident that in the case of "Salaries and Wages Paid" the cents are absolutely essential. In such cases a second column for cents will be found.

Mercantile Values.—The prices or values given for stock or materials used or goods made should be the prices at which bought or sold, or market values, and should include all expenses for packing, or making ready for market, for those articles bought or sold. In the case of "work done" the value is the price paid for the work done.

Book Values.—Certain values required are matters of record, such as Capital Invested, and exact amounts should be given from your books of account.

Combustible Values.—The assessors' valuation of real property is not desired; in giving the value of Buildings, etc., state the amount that would be claimed from an insurance company to replace the building, etc., if destroyed by fire.

Symbols.—In all cases where an Inquiry can be answered directly write in the reply in the proper space. Sometimes an Inquiry will not be applicable to a certain industry and no answer can be given. In such cases use the following symbol: (X).

When, from any good reason, it is impossible to give exact answers to any Inquiry, make the best possible estimate, and add the letter "E" to indicate that the answer is an estimate.

When it is impossible to give answers to Inquiries, which are yet applicable, fill in the space for answer with the following symbol: (=). As every such omission will detract from the value of the aggregated statistics on any point, the symbol should be used only, and will be accepted only, in cases where the omission is inevitable and where it will not seriously impair the value of similar statistics from other establishments.

In all cases where the information supplied is doubtful as to fact, or lacking in completeness, indicate the fact by "underscoring," or drawing a straight line (——) under the doubtful or incomplete information.

Number of Inquiries.—The number of Inquiries is apparently much larger than in previous Censuses. In reality this is not so. To facilitate reference and to render it possible to answer each Inquiry directly and without complication, and, also, in order to avoid all compound questions, the usual Inquiries have been subdivided, and to each part a number has been given. In the correspondence which will necessarily be required to complete the Schedules these numbers will form a means for specific reference.

Instructions by Mail.—The Census Office holds itself in readiness to return prompt replies by mail, when fuller instructions are requested regarding any of the Inquiries in this Schedule.

Upon the receipt of the mailing lists from the enumerators they were carefully examined and compared, as regards industries, with the Censuses of 1875 and 1880. In addition, town, city, and industrial directories were purchased and the lists carefully compared with a view to corrections and the supplying of omissions. It was also necessary to look carefully for duplications, for in spite of the explicit instruction (No. 54) many enumerators improperly returned names from cities or towns where "offices" only were located, while the same names were properly returned by enumerators in charge of the districts where the mills, factories, or workshops were located. These examinations, comparisons, corrections, and additions took so much time that it was not until October 27, 1885, that the mailing lists were considered to be in proper condition, and the work of mailing begun. In the case of one town only, Hampden, in Hampden county, was it found unnecessary to write to the enumerators for more definite information concerning manufactures.

There were 41,219 "Manufactures" schedules mailed, not including duplicates furnished to those who wished to keep copies of their returns. The whole number of returns from manufacturers represented in this volume is 23,431, leaving 17,788 schedules which after careful examination were declared "void." The enumerators evidently erred on the side of undue fulness in their lists. In hundreds of cases parties had died before the schedules reached them; in thousands of cases the firm had changed its name or location, and in thousands of other instances the names of parties who had not been engaged in business for years were improperly included in the enumerators' lists. Another error made by many enumerators was in sending in the names of parties who bought and sold only and did not manufacture any goods.

Of the 41,219 schedules mailed but 23,431, or 56.85 per cent, resulted in bona fide schedules. This shows an inherent defect in the system of securing mailing lists from enumerators. This office has never had much confidence in any system of obtaining statistics by mail, and this provision was only incorporated in the Census law at the suggestion of and with a view of benefiting many manufacturers who objected to making returns to enumerators who were residents of the cities or towns in which the firms were located, and were often parties to whom manufacturers did not care to disclose their private business. It lay within the power of the manufacturers to make the mailing system a success by filling their schedules properly and returning them promptly. This they failed to do, as is hereinafter fully explained, and they have no legitimate reason to find fault if the government in future discards the mailing system and relies upon enumerators or special agents for the collection of industrial statistics, a course which always secures the best results and in the shortest time.

The manufactures schedules as soon as possible after their receipt in the office were carefully examined and memorandums made of necessary corrections or of information omitted. Special agents were employed to visit those manufacturers from whom it was found impossible to obtain the desired information by mail. Notices were sent to such establishments as had made no return whatever, calling their attention to their delinquency, and requesting the return of schedules within 10 days. This appeal met with but a weak response, and after a suitable interval another notice called "final" was mailed, with the result of securing returns from about half of the then delinquents. During this time the special agents had been busily engaged in obtaining additional information from those who had returned incomplete schedules, and a large force of clerks in the office was also engaged in writing letters for similar information, and in sending out the "final notices" to delinquents.

In November, 1886, more than a year after the mailing of the schedules, the field work was in an unsatisfactory condition. Thousands of schedules were deficient in needed information and thousands of parties to whom schedules had been sent had failed to make returns. Many manufacturers returned the blank schedules without a word of explanation and it became necessary to deal with such as though they were new parties.

In November, 1886, an efficient move was made to close up the enumeration of the statistics of manufactures. A "delinquent card" was prepared, a copy of which was forwarded to every manufacturer who had made an incomplete return, as well as to those who had made no return whatever, informing them that a special agent of the Census office was to be at the principal hotel in their city or town on a specified day to aid in filling the uncompleted Census schedules. The manufacturers were requested to bring with them their schedules and all notices, letters, etc., that had been sent them from the Census office. In many cases the agent remained in a city or town for several days, and in several of the large cities two or more agents were deputed for concerted action. This energetic but expensive plan cleared all but 128 names from the delinquent list of the office.

The practical working of the mail system as regards the manufacturer can be plainly seen. A certain percentage answered promptly. Others were induced to reply on receiving "final notices" calling their attention to the penalties provided by law for those who failed to answer. The enumeration would, however, have been a failure if a body of trained statistical experts had not been put in the field to complete the work. This was done, however, as has been stated, and after twenty-three months work, during which time the correspondence division wrote nearly 10,000 letters, in addition to mailing notices and delinquent cards, and at least $10,000 in excess of estimates for this branch of the work had been expended, in September, 1887, the enumeration of the statistics of manufactures was declared completed.

It may be said by way of justification of the delinquency on the part of manufacturers that many of them considered the inquiries too far-reaching in their nature, some maintaining that the publication of detailed statistics of Massachusetts industries worked prejudicially to the business interests of the Commonwealth. Such parties were informed that every precaution would be taken not to disclose private business, and for this reason many detailed presentations, given in previous censuses, are omitted from this volume, and in all cases where the office considered that the presentation of figures might disclose private business, the figures have been omitted and a sign (*—) takes their place. If any instance has been passed over where such omission should have been made, the failure to omit the figures has been unintentional on the part of this office. The requests made by manufacturers engaged in new industries to suppress certain information that might be of advantage to business competitors has been complied with in every case. It is believed that the new presentations which have taken the place of omitted tables, are in every way more valuable statistically, both from the employer and employé's point of view, than those that have been omitted. In conclusion, so far as these preliminary remarks are concerned, it may be said, that all omitted figures are on file in the Census office, and in case of legitimate local or public need they will be supplied if their use will not be prejudicial to the interests of those who supplied the information.

The number of delinquents, or parties from whom the Census office failed to secure returns of manufactures for the year ending June 30, 1885, has been stated as 128. We present a distribution of this number by counties, cities, and towns.

There were no delinquents in the counties of Barnstable, Bristol, Dukes, Nantucket, Norfolk, and Plymouth. The town of Chicopee and the cities of Holyoke, Springfield, Boston, and Worcester were accountable for 78.13 per cent of the delinquents.

No important establishments were included in this list of delinquents. We give a table which shows the occupations of those who did not make returns.

An examination of this list shows that 27 cobblers, 43 dressmakers, and 12 tailors represent 82 of the delinquents, or 64.06 per cent of the whole number. It is evident that the Census returns cannot have lost to an appreciable extent by the omission of these returns.

In order to bring the delinquent list into line with the industry classification used in this volume, an industry aggregation has been prepared and is presented.

It does not follow that all of these delinquents could or ought to have made a return. When a name was once entered on the mailing list of the Census office it remained there until a filled schedule was received or until information was obtained that warranted the crossing out of the name as "void." In the case of the 128 we were unable to secure schedules or trustworthy information upon which to call them void. Supposing that each represented an annual product of $1,000, which is plainly an extravagant estimate, the grand total of manufactured product has lost but $128,000, or less than two one-hundredths of one per cent. We are warranted, we think, therefore, in considering the industrial statistics of 1885 as having been satisfactorily enumerated.

We have now to deal with the returns made by the 23,431 establishments engaged in manufactures. With the view of ascertaining how many establishments answered the important inquiries, an independent tally was carried on throughout the Census work, the aggregated results of which give an insight into the character of the returns which could have been made manifest in no other way, and which amply pays for the labor required to secure the results.

We may illustrate the reason for making this tally. If each establishment answered every question there would be no difficulty in arriving at reliable averages. But many questions are inapplicable to certain establishments and no answers can be given. Thus occur unavoidable and legitimate omissions. But if 500 establishments answer an inquiry and 500 do not, it results in an obviously incorrect average if the total for the 500 establishments answering is divided by 1,000. The result is an average for each of 1,000 establishments of which, however, but 500 gave answers. The correct statistical method would be to state that 500 establishments made no return, and then state the average for the 500 establishments that did make returns.

We present a table showing, for the State and counties, the number of establishments that made returns of total capital invested, and also returns of the details of such capital. The number of establishments making such returns is included in the columns headed "Given." Those establishments that did not make returns, as regards the points specified, are included in the columns headed "Not given."

We find as regards total capital invested that 99.30 per cent of the establishments answered, less than three-quarters of one per cent of the establishments failing to make returns. This failure to reply may have been legitimate, for in some branches of industry little or no invested capital is required. The detail percentages are so explicitly given in the table that it would be a needless repetition to give them again in text.

We present, in one table, a comparative showing for "Stock Used," "Goods Made," "Persons Employed," and "Wages Paid."

These most satisfying results may be repeated in text form. Of the entire number of establishments, or 23,431, the value of stock used was returned by 22,303, or 95.19 per cent, only 1,128, or 4.81 per cent, making no returns: these 1,128 did not use stock on their own account, it being supplied to them by parties for whom the work was done. The entire number of establishments made returns of the value of goods made and work done. As regards persons employed, 17,058, or 72.80 per cent, made returns, while 6,373, or 27.20 per cent, made no returns. As all establishments do not employ persons, in many cases the members of the firms doing the work themselves, this exhibit is not an unsatisfactory one, and is undoubtedly a correct presentation of the actual condition of the firms in question. This statement finds ample verification when we consider wages paid, for we find that 17,125, or 73.09 per cent, reported wages paid, while 6,306, or 26.91 per cent, made no returns. If no persons were employed, then, naturally, no wages would be paid, and the close similarity between the numbers and percentages for persons employed and wages paid supplies an inherent proof of the correctness of the returns for both points considered.

If the various points, by cities and towns, for capital invested, are posted, so to speak, under the various industry headings, we secure a most complete showing in detail, and one of great value in considering the figure presentation of capital invested.

In considering this table, reference should be made to the presentation "CAPITAL INVESTED: BY INDUSTRIES," on page 655.

A schedule was prepared intended to secure statistics relative to the value, product, etc., of mines, quarries, pits, bogs, muck beds, marl deposits, and salt works, but the returns were found in so many cases to have been duplicated in the returns made by manufacturers and farmers, that the separate tabulation and presentation of results were abandoned, and all the matter was transferred to the manufactures and agricultural schedules. mines, the iron ore mined, the only item of any considerable value, has been credited to the establishments mining the ore and using it in their business, it finding an appropriate classification under the manufactures industry heading "Metals and Metallic Goods." So, in the case of quarries, the value of the various kinds of stone quarried, and other statistics, have been carried under the manufactures industry heading "Stone." There would seem to be no statistical need in a Massachusetts Census of a schedule devoted to mines, quarries, etc., as the information designed to be obtained on such a schedule can be more easily and properly secured on other schedules. We would, therefore, recommend the omission of this schedule in future Censuses, at least until mining and quarrying, as industries, become more distinctive in their nature.

One general schedule was used to obtain the statistics of manufactures. It made a pamphlet of ten pages containing 193 inquiries, classified under recognized information heads. We present a table showing the classification of inquiries.

All the information on the 23,431 manufactures schedules given in reply to such of the 193 inquiries as were applicable has been tabulated and is presented in this volume with the exception of three subjects designated by asterisks. These subjects requiring extended text for their consideration, and being particularly statistics of labor, will form part of the 20th Annual Report (for 1889) of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor.

With a view of making an industry classification in advance, from the mailing list supplied by enumerators, twenty-three industry headings, covering the leading industries, were printed on the schedules, although no changes were made in the inquiries. By this means a manufacturer making print cloth received a schedule having the printed head "Cotton Goods;" a carpenter or mason received one headed "Building;" and, in this way, a preliminary classification was secured.

But four special schedules were used, that is, schedules in which particular inquiries, appropriate only to the industry in question, were made. These four special schedules were headed, — "Gas Companies," "Printing and Publishing," "Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries," and "Shipbuilding."

Much of the information obtained upon the "Gas Companies" special schedule, while of value, has been presented in the annual reports of the Gas Commissioners and to avoid duplication has been omitted from this volume.

The information obtained upon the special schedule headed "Printing and Publishing" was used in the preparation of the presentations in this volume entitled "NEWSPAPERS."

The object in having a special schedule devoted to "Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries" was to secure such information as would prevent the duplication of the cotton product, and make sure that the value of the work done, or the value added by subjecting textiles or other articles to processes, was used as a "product figure," instead of twice counting the cotton product — once for the cotton mill, and again in the bleachery return.

The information obtained upon the special "Shipbuilding" schedule was of value in distinguishing "new" from "old" work, — that is the building of new vessels and the rebuilding or repairing of old vessels.

The schedule devoted to "The Fisheries" contained 204 inquiries, and, as in the case of the general manufactures schedule, made a pamphlet of ten pages. We classify the inquiries under information heads.

All the information obtained by this schedule is presented in this volume under the division head "THE FISHERIES," excepting wages and profits (denoted by an asterisk). The wage statistics will be presented in the Report of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor for 1890.

The "Commerce" schedule contained 4 pages and 33 inquiries. The information called for included the name of the vessel, whether engaged in coastwise or ocean commerce, the kind of vessel, tonnage, and value. The owners were also called upon to state the flag under which the vessel sailed; the quantity of freight carried and amount received for transporting same; the number of passengers carried and amount received; the length of a trip in miles, and the time employed in making it; a statement for each vessel showing how much of the total value was owned by citizens of Massachusetts, how much by citizens of other States, and how much by foreigners; the principal port visited by each vessel, and the principal articles transported; and the number of seamen employed, with their nationalities.

The information particularized is presented in this volume under the division head "COMMERCE." The facts obtained in relation to salaries and wages will be given, with the other statistics of salaries and wages, in the Report of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor for 1890.

We have outlined the general plan governing the collection of the industrial statistics for the Census year ending June 30, 1885. We have considered the law, the instructions to enumerators and parties making returns, the general and special schedules and their inquiries, the number of delinquents and extent of delinquency, the method of conducting and the scientific results of the work of enumeration. We have now to consider the practical results of the Census of Industrial Statistics and analyze in order the various presentations included under the six divisions comprehended in this volume.

Each of these presentations is, hereinafter, taken up and considered in detail. Attention has previously been called, in a general way, to those cases in which omissions of figures are made in order not to disclose the private business of individual establishments. In such instances, the sign ("—") takes the place of the omitted figures. In such presentations as required particular explanation to aid in their proper reading or appreciation, explanatory head-notes and foot-notes have been inserted. The plan followed in classifying manufacturing establishments under the 83 industry headings is fully explained in the consideration of "MANUFACTURES: BY INDUSTRIES."

NUMBER OF ESTABLISHMENTS: BY TOWNS (page 3) shows the number of establishments in each of the 348 cities and towns of the State, and also the number of establishments in each of the 83 industries which may be represented in each city or town.

In the Census of 1875, the productive mechanical industries of the State were classified, for Census purposes, into "Manufactures" and their "Related Occupations." By the former term was meant all those products which required labor and raw materials in their manufacture; that is, those produced by hand or machinery from materials called stock. By "Related Occupations" was meant those industries where an added value was given an article, by new processes or manipulations, by the use of little, if any, additional stock.

In the Census of 1885 the establishments engaged in both classes of manufacture have been included under the general title of "Manufactures." There were 22,228 manufacturing establishments, including the two classes referred to, in 1875, and 23,431 on June 30, 1885. These figures show a gain of 1,203 establishments in ten years, or 5.41 per cent.

We present a table which shows, for cities and towns, the respective number of establishments in the Census years 1875 and 1885, and the increase or decrease in 1885. The table also shows the number of different industries carried on in each city or town, the greatest number of establishments in any one industry, the name of the principal industry, based upon the number of persons employed, and the number of establishments in that industry.

The table is followed by a recapitulation which shows, for the State and counties, the comparative number of establishments in 1875 and 1885, and the increase or decrease in 1885.

The asterisk (*) indicates new towns, changes in area, boundaries, etc., since 1875. See "NOTES," on page 83, Part 1, Vol. I., Census of 1885. The sign (=) indicates the same number of establishments in both Census years. In some cases, two industries are mentioned in the column headed "Name of Principal Industry," and the number of establishments for each is given.

Constant changes are going on in manufacturing establishments. Many manufacturers lose their establishments by fire, others for various causes remove from place to place, many suspend from lack of business or too much competition, while others go into bankruptcy or are consolidated with large concerns. At the same time new establishments are constantly taking the place of those that fall out of line.

We next present a table which gives the towns (not cities) that show a gain or loss in manufactured product in 1885 as compared with 1875,

We are unable to give the reasons, in detail, for the increase or decrease as regards cities, for the enumerators in cities could not account for business changes as could an enumerator in a town, but the general reasons for such changes in towns have been stated in the preceding paragraph and would be the same in the case of cities.

From the recapitulation we find that between 1875 and 1885, 1,349 manufacturing establishments suspended operations in the towns: of these suspensions 8 were caused by removals, 24 by fire, while no special cause was assigned in the case of the remaining 1,317. During this same period 1,998 new establishments were organized in the towns of the State.

Of the gain of 1,203 establishments during the decade, 549 were gained in the towns, while 654 of the gain should be credited to the cities.

PRIVATE FIRMS AND CORPORATIONS: BY TOWNS (page 37). This presentation gives the number of private firms, corporations, and total establishments in each city, town, and county of the State. We present a classification of private firms and corporations.

| CLASSIFICATION.          | Establishments | PERCENTAGES |
|--------------------------|----------------|-------------|
| THE STATE.               | 23,431         | 100.00      |
| Private firms, . . . . . | 22,482         | 95.95       |
| Corporations, . . . . .  | 920            | 4.05        |
| Associations, . . . . .  | 23             |             |
| Societies, . . . . .     | 3              |             |
| Institutions, . . . . .  | 3              |             |

Of the 23,431 establishments in the State, 22,482, or 95.95 per cent are private firms. As regards number, the corporations represent but 4.05 per cent of the whole number of establishments.

We next present a comparison, as regards the number of private firms and corporations, between the Census years 1875 and 1885, with percentage equivalents.

| CLASSIFICATION.          | NUMBER |        | PERCENTAGES |        |
|--------------------------|--------|--------|-------------|--------|
|                          | 1875   | 1885   | 1875        | 1885   |
| THE STATE.               | 22,228 | 23,431 | 100.00      | 100.00 |
| Private firms, . . . . . | 21,708 | 22,482 | 97.66       | 95.95  |
| Corporations, . . . . .  | 520    | 949    | 2.34        | 4.05   |

We see that there has been a slight falling off in the percentage of private firms, and a proportional increase in the percentage of corporations. If we compare the number of corporations in 1875 with the number in 1885, we find a gain in 1885 of 429, or 82.50 per cent.

DATE OF ESTABLISHMENT: BY TOWNS (page 43). This presentation shows the origin and growth of manufacturing industries in each city and town. These dates of establishment are, of course, for existing firms only. No record has been kept of those that have been destroyed by fire, removed to other towns, gone into bankruptcy, or suspended from other causes. Certain anachronisms occurred in the table, because dates of establishment for certain firms are given many years previous to the incorporation of the towns in which they are located. They should properly be credited to the old town in which they were originally situated, but this is impossible in a tabular presentation of the nature of the one given. These dates, in many cases, have been the years of inception of the industries. The Bureau has in its possession the names of the pioneers or founders of all the great industries, the changes in the various firms with dates of such changes, and the information when put into historical form will thoroughly establish the fact of the stability and solid growth of the manufacturing industries of the Commonwealth. The growth in the number of establishments by periods of years is herewith given.

* In 1885, six months only are included, to June 30, end of the Census Year.

A marked growth is shown in the period from 1866 to 1870, the increase being larger than in any previous period. A still greater growth is shown from 1871 to 1875, and even greater than that from 1876 to 1880, while the period from 1881 to 1885 shows the most marked advance of any. Of the whole number of establishments, 23,431, there are 14,477, or 61.80 per cent, that were established in or since 1866. A previous period, from 1841 to 1865, represents 4,639 establishments, or 19.80 per cent; so that 45 years cover the organization of 81.60 per cent of existing establishments. In the case of 2,995 establishments, or 12.78 per cent, the proprietors were unable to state the year in which they were established.

CORPORATIONS: BY TOWNS. DATE OF ESTABLISHMENT AND CAPITAL STOCK AT TIME OF INCORPORATION (page 103). We have seen that on June 30, 1885, there were 949 corporations in the Commonwealth. Their distribution by counties, as regards number and capital stock at time of incorporation, with percentage equivalents, is shown in the subjoined table.

More than one-fifth of the corporations are in the county of Suffolk; the counties of Bristol, Middlesex, and Worcester have about the same number each, while the counties of Essex and Hampden are nearly on a par. Of the capital stock at time of incorporation, nearly one-fifth belonged to corporations in the county of Suffolk. The counties of Bristol and Middlesex follow next in order.

If the establishment of corporations by periods of years and the capital stock at time of incorporation are brought together, we secure the following table :

* In 1885, six months only are included, to June 30, end of Census Year.

It is evident to a marked extent that the greatest increase in the number of corporations and amount of capital stock was in the period from 1881 to 1885.

CORPORATIONS AND CAPITAL STOCK: BY TOWNS (page 113). In all countries there has been shown at various times among the people a spirit inimical to the growth of large corporations.

Previous to the Census of 1875 it was maintained by many persons that Massachusetts was a "corporation ridden State." It was asserted that the corporations were adding largely to their capital, and gradually absorbing or crushing out the private firms, and thus putting the great industries under corporate control.

The results of the Census of 1875 showed conclusively that the greater portion of the business of the Commonwealth was in the hands of the private firms. It may, however, be considered a subject upon which too much information cannot be obtained, and in the Census of 1885 inquiries were included in the schedule with a view to ascertaining more particularly the facts concerning the origin, growth, and present condition of corporations, and their relative strength as compared with private firms. We have stated that on June 30, 1885, there were 949 corporations in the Commonwealth.

| MANNER OF INCORPORATION.    | Number | Percentages |
|-----------------------------|--------|-------------|
| THE STATE.                  | 949    | 100.00      |
| General law, . . . . .      | 764    | 80.51       |
| Special law, . . . . .      | 161    | 16.96       |
| Not incorporated, . . . . . | 24     | 2.53        |

We see that 764, or 80.51 per cent, were incorporated under general law; there were 161, or 16.96 per cent, for the organization of which special laws were passed by the Legislature.

The next table shows the manner in which these corporations were originally established.

| MANNER IN WHICH ORIGINALLY ESTABLISHED. | Number | Percentages |
|-----------------------------------------|--------|-------------|
| THE STATE.                              | 949    | 100.00      |
| As private firms, . . . . .             | 393    | 41.41       |
| As corporations, . . . . .              | 556    | 58.59       |

We find that 556, or 58.59 per cent, were originally organized as corporations, while 393, or 41.41 per cent, were originally established as private firms, but afterwards adopted a corporate organization.

The growth of corporations is shown in the next table, in which we present the amount of capital stock at the time of incorporation, the amount of capital stock on June 30, 1885, and the increase or decrease in capital stock in 1885, with percentage equivalents. This showing is by counties.

The gain in capital invested in corporations during the period specified is seen to be $59,619,857, or 48.49 per cent. This is the average growth for the Commonwealth. In six counties, Hampden, Hampshire, Middlesex, Nantucket, Plymouth, and Worcester, the average growth has been above the stated average. For various reasons, parties engaged in the formation of new corporations have located or organized them outside of the State. To what extent this had been done has not been definitely shown heretofore. We present a table showing the names of the States in which the 949 corporations were organized.

Of the whole number, 949, there were 851, or 89.67 per cent, organized in Massachusetts, leaving but 10.33 per cent for the other States. The State of Maine is the official home of 41 corporations, or 4.32 per cent of the whole number. The presentation by number is not thoroughly indicative; we therefore give a table which shows, by States, the amount of capital stock at time of incorporation, the amount of capital stock on June 30, 1885, the increase or decrease in 1885, and equivalent percentages.

Massachusetts shows an increase of $57,196,850, or 54.91 per cent. This is in excess of the general average gain for the State, and a much larger gain is shown in the case of Rhode Island; smaller gains are shown for Connecticut, Maine, and New York. A decrease is shown for New Hampshire and West Virginia, and no change in the case of the States of New Jersey and Illinois.

It is evident that Massachusetts corporations have been, as a rule, organized under Massachusetts laws. Of the total capital stock on June 30, 1885, 88.38 per cent was invested in corporations organized in the Commonwealth.

PARTNERS AND STOCKHOLDERS: BY TOWNS (page 119). We present a table showing the number of partners, classified as general or special, in the private firms in the State, and the number of stockholders in the corporations.

| THE STATE                   | 71,025 | 100.00      |

| Stockholders, . . . . .     | 42,731 | 60.16       |

Of the 71,025 persons engaged in the manufacturing industries of the State, 28,177, or 39.67 per cent, are general partners, 117, or .17 per cent, are special partners, while 42,731, or 60.16 per cent, are stockholders. A classification by sexes, with percentages, is next given.

Of the general partners, 93.81 per cent are males and 6.19 per cent females. The male special partners constitute 85.47 per cent and the females 14.53 per cent. Of the stockholders, 72.91 per cent are males and 27.09 per cent females. The males form 81.22 per cent and the females 18.78 per cent of the whole number of persons carrying on the manufacturing and mechanical industries of the Commonwealth.

We next compare the Census years 1875 and 1885.

| Average number of stockholders to a corporation, . . | 50.11  | 45.03  |

We note a decrease both in the average number of partners to a private firm and the average number of stockholders to a corporation in 1885 as compared with 1875.

The figure used for the number of private firms in 1875 does not include those engaged in the "Related Occupations" previously referred to, so the only figures that can be properly compared are the average numbers of partners and of stockholders. The gain in stockholders during the decade has been 16,673, or 63.98 per cent.

CAPITAL INVESTED: BY TOWNS (page 127). To obtain correct statistics of capital invested is the hardest work that the collector of industrial statistics is called upon to do, and the results have been, as a rule, the most unsatisfactory. The tendency on the part of the manufacturers has been to understate rather than overstate the amount of capital invested.

The fear of disclosing information that might be used to their prejudice in making up the tax lists may have influenced many manufacturers. It has been the custom of corporations in making return of capital to state merely their nominal capital, that is, the amount allowed them by their act of incorporation. They have not, as a rule, made any return of accumulated profits, which, from time to time, have been invested in the business, and have contributed to its expansion. The Bureau, in making investigations some seven years ago, ascertained in the case of a number of large corporations that their nominal capital invested was not more than one-third of the capital used and necessary to carry on the business as it then existed. It was then decided that in the Census of 1885 an attempt should be made to secure more complete and reliable statistics of capital invested. It was comparatively easy to ask for the value of their real or fixed items of capital, such as land, buildings and fixtures, machinery, implements and tools, and cash. Beyond this was an enumeration that had not been touched upon by statisticians, and it was foreseen that such an investigation must be to a great extent tentative. Nevertheless, a conscientious attempt has been made by the Census office to secure statistics of "credit capital," which is as essential to the carrying on of a great establishment as the real or cash capital, but which has, in the past, been entirely omitted from the returns.

It was intended that this credit capital should include all income from investments, interest, and all other aids to capital. In the schedule, the manufacturers were called upon to subdivide their credit capital, stating, first, the amount supplied by partners or stockholders in the way of loans: and, second, the monetary assistance obtained by the use of bills payable, accounts on long time, etc.

In the presentation of "CAPITAL INVESTED: BY TOWNS," pages 127 to 136, there is no aggregation of the figures showing the whole amount invested in the plant in each city and town, nor are the two divisions of credit capital added together. We have, therefore, prepared a table which shows for 50 cities and towns, arranged in the order of their prominence as regards the total value of goods made, the aggregated amount of capital invested in plant, the cash capital, the aggregated credit capital, and the total capital invested. The remaining 298 towns in the State form one line of aggregates.

As regards total capital invested, Middlesex is the leading county. Then follow Suffolk, Bristol, Essex, Worcester, and Hampden in the order named. The relative rank of the other counties may be learned from the table.

For the State, we present a classification of capital invested with amounts and percentages.

| Implements and tools, . . . . .                                        | 14,298,711    | 2.86        |
| Cash, . . . . .                                                        | 173,440,947   | 34.65       |
| Credit capital (supplied by partners or stockholders), . . . . .       | 19,481,405    | 3.89        |
| Credit capital (bills payable, accounts on long time, etc.), . . . . . | 73,531,052    | 14.69       |

It is seen that cash forms 34.65 per cent of the total capital invested. Machinery is the next item of importance representing 20.17 per cent. If we add together the two items of credit capital we find that the expansion of capital invested from these sources forms 18.58 per cent of the total capital invested.

The amount represented by credit capital is $93,012,457; this seems a large sum to add to capital, but if we turn to the table on page xxxix we find of 23,431 establishments, that only 475, or 2.03 per cent, returned credit capital as being supplied by partners or stockholders, while but 2,926 establishments, or 12.49 per cent, reported the use of credit capital from the discounting of notes, the purchase of goods on long time, etc. Thus it will be seen that although the amount of credit capital included in this presentation seems large, it was returned by but a small percentage of the manufacturing establishments in the State, and was evidently returned by those establishments to whom such credit capital was an item of great importance in the financial conduct of their business.

It is evident that in considering capital invested, especially in bringing the total into comparison with the total value of goods made, that there must be a marked difference in the result, for in the one case we should consider merely the nominal capital, and in the other case we should use a figure giving the whole amount of money, whether invested in plant, goods, accounts, etc., which might be needed and used in the production of goods.

We consider the point established that a manufacturer in returning his capital invested should include all the capital used by him, in securing his production, of whatever nature, whether on hand, borrowed, or accumulated from profits. His credit capital (borrowed capital) should include the amounts supplied by partners or stockholders, these sums being practically loaned by them to the firm or corporation; his credit capital should also include what money he has the use of from the giving of notes, or the obtaining of credit for a long time, either for goods or cash.

The Census office has found that in obtaining this figure there was one point to be carefully considered, and that was to avoid duplications in the returns of capital, so that an amount which might have been borrowed and afterwards invested in the plant, or on hand in cash, might not have been twice counted, once as real capital, and then as credit capital. It is hard to establish a general rule which will apply to every case, but the Census office, as the result of its experiments in obtaining statistics of credit capital invested, has arrived at the conclusion that a manufacturer has no better guide to aid him in determining the amount of his credit capital than to take his interest account and find the sum that that interest represents for one year's business.

In other words, if a manufacturer's interest account showed an expenditure of $6,000, and his average discount rate was six per cent, it would be fair to assume that he had had the use of $100,000 during the year. This plan would cover loans from partners or stockholders and notes payable. An independent estimate would have to be made of the amount of credit capital of which he really had the use from buying goods on long time. However, as these long time accounts are usually settled by notes, this fact would render the computation easier.

With a view of showing the relative amount of product to one dollar of capital invested we have prepared the following table, the figures for which have been drawn from two United States and three State Censuses.

In this table, currency figures for 1865, 1870, and 1875 have been reduced to gold values. In 1865 for each dollar of capital invested there was a product amounting to $2.91; in 1870 this figure fell to $2.39; in 1875 to $2.10; in 1880 to $2.08; in 1885, with credit capital included, a very great reduction took place, the figure being $1.35. If credit capital is omitted from the figures for 1885 it gives $1.66 worth of product to $1.00 of capital invested. These figures show plainly that the proportional value of product for each dollar of capital invested is decreasing, thereby narrowing the margin between cost and selling price, from which profits, interest, etc., must be paid. It is probable that the actual increase in capital invested over that shown by previous Censuses is not quite so great as would seem to be indicated by the preceding table; for it should be borne in mind that a more complete return of capital has been secured in the present Census than ever before. It would seem to be an economic fact, that the manufacturer of the present day, when we consider the large amount of money that must be invested before any goods can be manufactured, and the close competition to which he is subjected in home and foreign markets, cannot expect to make a profit on his goods and also secure interest on the capital that he has invested. He is obliged to look at the question from one of two points of view; either to consider his profits as a return for the capital he has invested, or to consider his profits as such, and to regard his capital invested as a mechanical necessity and not as an item from which he can anticipate a money return.

STOCK USED: BY TOWNS (page 137). In this presentation, the intention has been to include under 18 general heads the various articles of stock used in the respective cities and towns of the Commonwealth. One object of the particular form of consolidation adopted was to avoid disclosing the facts concerning any individual establishment; another object was to secure grand aggregates by kinds of material used.

We first present a table giving the principal articles of stock used, the value of each article, and the percentage equivalents.

The total value of stock used in the manufactures of the State during the Census year ending June 30, 1885, was $389,757,458; of this amount, leather represents 19.94 per cent, food materials 16.54 per cent, raw cotton 9.46 per cent, and raw wool 5.61 per cent. The values and percentages for the other articles may be learned from the table.

If we consolidate these 18 articles under six heads, more general in their nature, we find that raw and manufactured textiles represent 25.36 per cent, leather 19.94 per cent, food materials 16.54 per cent, metals 7.44 per cent, wood 5.07 per cent, and all other materials 25.65 per cent.

GOODS MADE: BY TOWNS (page 159). In the presentation of goods made the intention was to include, under 15 general heads, the various articles made and kinds of work done in the respective cities and towns of the Commonwealth. As was stated before, in the case of stock used, one object of the form of consolidation adopted was to avoid disclosing the facts concerning individual establishments; another object was to secure grand aggregates of articles made and kinds of work done.

A duplication of values necessarily accompanies this process of aggregating, for the manufactured product of one manufacturer becomes the raw material of another, and is included by the latter in the value of the goods made by him. For instance, the value of manufactured leather is duplicated in the returns of boots and shoes manufactured; the value of lumber appears again under "Building," "Boxes," "Wooden Goods," and other industries in which lumber is used as stock; cotton, woollen, and worsted textiles are used in the manufacture of clothing. The list might be largely extended, but it is evident that this duplication of values is an inevitable accompaniment of statistics of production.

The first table that we present shows the cities and towns arranged in such order as to indicate their relative rank for manufactures, this relative rank being based upon the total value of goods made and work done. The county in which each city or town is located is given, the total population, the total value of goods made and work done, and the total value of agricultural products. We also show the comparative ranks for "Agriculture" and "Population," these latter figures being reproduced from Vol. III., "Agricultural Products and Property," and Part I. Vol. I., "Population and Social Statistics," of the Census of 1885.

Analysis can add but little, if anything, to the graphic features of this table, but it may be stated, by way of a condensed result, that Boston ranks as No. 1, with a total product of $144,376,202; 12 cities show a product during the Census year of between $10,000,000 and $50,000,000; 4 cities and 6 towns have a product of from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000; 6 cities and 72 towns have a product of from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000; 36 towns have a product of from $500,000 to $1,000,000; 88 towns from $100,000 to $500,000; 116 towns from $1,000 to $100,000; 4 towns manufacture less than $1,000 worth of goods; while 3 towns, Cottage City and Gosnold in Dukes county, and Montgomery in Hampden county, have no manufacturing establishments.

We next present a table showing, in gold values, for each city and town in the Commonwealth having a greater value of product in 1885 than in 1875, the total value of goods made and work done in the Census years 1875 and 1885, and the increase for each city and town in the Census year 1885, with its percentage equivalent.

The asterisk indicates new towns, changes in area, boundaries, etc., since 1875. See "NOTES," page 83, Part 1, Vol. I., Census of 1885.

We present a similar table for one city and 141 towns showing a decrease in 1885 as compared with 1875. The towns of Cottage City and Gosnold in Dukes county do not appear in either table.

The asterisk indicates new towns, changes in area, boundaries, etc., since 1875. See "NOTES," page 83, Part 1, Vol. I., Census of 1885.

From the table we find that these places which in 1875 reported the value of goods made and work done at $86,603,805, returned for 1885 a value of but $60,802,524; this shows a decrease of $25,801,281, or 29.79 per cent. Bringing into one table for the State and counties, the cities and towns showing increase and the cities and towns showing decrease, with the amounts of gross increase and decrease, we secure the following:

† Including 22 cities.

‡ Including one city.

§ Including two towns having "no manufactures."

Of the whole number of cities and towns, 348, there are 204 which show an increase in the value of goods made in 1885 as compared with 1875, while 144 show a decrease; percentages of increase and decrease for the State and counties are also given. As stated in the foot-note, the actual net increase in 1885 over 1875, in gold values, is $145,765,635, the actual net percentage of increase being 27.56.

The total value of goods made is distributed under the 15 general heads previously referred to, in the following table :

If, as in the case of stock used, we condense these 15 heads into 7 more general in their nature, we secure the following result :

From this table we learn that textiles and clothing represent 27.46 per cent of the total value of goods made, boots, shoes, and leather 22.13 per cent, food preparations 12.78 per cent, metals and metallic goods 10.07 per cent, wooden and metal goods 6.66 per cent, paper and printing 5.72 per cent, and other goods made 15.18 per cent.

PERSONS EMPLOYED: BY TOWNS (page 175). This presentation gives the whole number of persons, by sex and by ages, in the various cities and towns, who were employed in manufacturing and mechanical industries on June 30, 1885. The total number of persons employed on that date, 379,328, should not be confounded with the number given on page 232, or 419,966, which latter number indicates the number of wage earners employed during the year ending June 30, 1885. The first table given shows the sex and age periods for the number employed on June 30, 1885, 379,328, with percentages.

| Under 10, . . . . .      | 6       | 18      | 24         | —           | 0.02    | 0.01       |
| 10 but under 14, . . . . | 2,057   | 1,427   | 3,484      | 0.78        | 1.23    | 0.92       |
| 14 but under 21, . . . . | 35,360  | 33,996  | 69,356     | 13.40       | 29.43   | 18.28      |
| 21 and over, . . . . .   | 226,401 | 80,063  | 306,464    | 85.82       | 69.32   | 80.79      |

We have these gratifying results, that the number of persons, under 10 years of age, employed in manufacturing and mechanical industries, on June 30, 1885, was but 24, or .01 per cent; those over 10, but under 14 years of age, numbered 3,484, or .92 per cent: thus the whole number of children employed in the industries of the State numbered but .93 per cent, or less than one per cent, of all the persons employed.

The young persons, including those who are 14 but under 21 years of age, numbered 69,356, or 18.28 per cent. The adults, or those 21 years of age and over, numbered 306,464, or 80.79 per cent.

It will be seen, also, that of the children and young persons there are more females than males, while the adults show a preponderance of males. From Part 2, Volume I., of the Census of 1885, we reproduce a table showing, by age periods, the number of persons employed in manufactures, as drawn from the population schedules.

| AGE PERIODS.           | Number  | Percentages |
|------------------------|---------|-------------|
| THE STATE.             | 396,422 | 100.00      |

| 10 to 13, . . . . .    | 1,835   | 0.46        |
| 14 to 19, . . . . .    | 67,958  | 17.14       |
| 20 to 29, . . . . .    | 131,910 | 33.28       |
| 30 to 39, . . . . .    | 82,788  | 20.88       |
| 40 to 49, . . . . .    | 57,619  | 14.54       |
| 50 to 59, . . . . .    | 34,419  | 8.68        |
| 60 to 79, . . . . .    | 19,497  | 4.92        |
| 80 and over, . . . . . | 365     | 0.09        |
| Unknown, . . . . .     | 28      | 0.01        |

It will be seen that the total number reaches 396,422, or 17,094 in excess of the number reported as being employed on June 30, 1885. This variation is easily explained from the fact that the population enumeration was made on May 1, 1885, and also from the fact that many persons who gave a specified occupation for themselves may not have been employed in that occupation, during the Census year, and so were not reported by manufacturers as being on their pay rolls. It will be noticed that the number of persons reported by the manufacturers as being under 14 years of age is larger than the number reported by the people themselves as being under that age. The age period classifications for the Census years 1875 and 1885 were not the same, owing to the fact that a new and broader classification was adopted in 1885. This will render comparisons with future Censuses of more value.

We present a table showing a classification by sex and age periods for the Census year 1875.

| AGE PERIODS.                       |  | Number  | Percentages |
|------------------------------------|--|---------|-------------|
| THE STATE.                         |  | 308,963 | 100.00      |
| Under 10 years, . . . . .          |  | 252     | 0.08        |
| Males, . . . . .                   |  | 84      | 0.03        |
| Females, . . . . .                 |  | 168     | 0.05        |
| Between 10 and 15 years, . . . . . |  | 11,659  | 3.77        |
| Males, . . . . .                   |  | 6,671   | 2.16        |
| Females, . . . . .                 |  | 4,988   | 1.61        |
| Above 15 years, . . . . .          |  | 297,052 | 96.15       |
| Males, . . . . .                   |  | 297,553 | 67.18       |
| Females, . . . . .                 |  | 89,499  | 28.97       |

From a comparison of the results for 1875 and 1885, it is evident that there has been a material decrease in the number of children employed in manufacturing and mechanical establishments.

A comparison of the sexes, by numbers and percentages, for 1875 and 1885 follows :

| SEX.               | NUMBER  |         | PERCENTAGES |        |
|--------------------|---------|---------|-------------|--------|
|                    | 1875    | 1885    | 1875        | 1885   |
| THE STATE.         | 308,963 | 379,328 | 100.00      | 100.00 |
| Males, . . . . .   | 214,308 | 263,824 | 69.36       | 69.55  |
| Females, . . . . . | 94,655  | 115,504 | 30.64       | 30.45  |

Although the number of females employed in 1885 is largely in excess of the number employed in 1875, it will be noticed that there has been a slight decrease in the percentage of females employed, and a correspondingly slight increase in the percentage of males employed.

DAY AND PIECE HANDS: BY TOWNS (page 189). We first give a table in which the total number of persons employed June 30, 1885, or 379,328, is classified as regards day hands and piece hands, and by age periods, with percentage equivalents.

The salient point brought out by this table is that, proportionally speaking, there are about the same number of day hands and piece hands among the young persons, and also among the adults. If we compare numbers and percentages, for day hands and piece hands, for the Census years 1875 and 1885, we get the following result :

|------------------------|---------|---------|-------------|--------|
|                        | 1875    | 1885    | 1875        | 1885   |
| THE STATE.             | 266,339 | 379,328 | 100.00      | 100.00 |
| Day hands, . . . . .   | 176,753 | 232,634 | 66.36       | 61.33  |
| Piece hands, . . . . . | 89,586  | 146,694 | 33.64       | 38.67  |

It will be seen that in 1885 there is a decrease shown of about 5 per cent in the number of day hands and a corresponding increase shown in the number of piece hands.

THE EMPLOYMENT OF MARRIED PERSONS AND CHILDREN: BY TOWNS (page 197). In the Census of 1875 no return was made as to the number of single and married males employed in manufactures, so, in making a comparison between the Census years 1875 and 1885, as is done in the following table, it is only possible to show comparative percentages as regards females.

| SEX AND CONJUGAL CONDITION. | NUMBER  |         | PERCENTAGES |        |
|-----------------------------|---------|---------|-------------|--------|
|                             | 1875    | 1885    | 1875        | 1885   |

| Single, . . . . .           | —       | 178,595 | —           | 67.69  |
| Married, . . . . .          | —       | 85,229  | —           | 32.31  |
| Females, . . . . .          | 94,655  | 115,504 | 100.00      | 100.00 |
| Single, . . . . .           | 85,157  | 101,983 | 89.97       | 88.29  |
| Married, . . . . .          | 9,498   | 13,521  | 10.03       | 11.71  |

The percentages show a slight falling off in the number of single females employed, and a correspondingly slight increase in the number of married females employed in manufacturing industries. Considering both sexes, for 1885, we find 73.97 per cent are single, and 26.03 per cent are married.

WOMEN FURNISHED WITH WORK AT HOME: BY TOWNS (page 211). In the Census of 1875, the whole number of women furnished with work at home was given as 30,916. To these were paid in wages $1,528,532, or an average to each, gold value, of $44.14. By the Census of 1885 a great falling off is shown in the number of women so employed, the number returned being but 18,333, and for only 15,538 of these were the wages paid reported. The total wages paid were $514,362, or an average to each of $33.10; this shows a falling off of about 25 per cent in average earnings. The cause for the decrease in the number of women furnished with work at home, and in their average wages, is more fully accounted for in the analysis of "WOMEN FURNISHED WITH WORK AT HOME: BY INDUSTRIES."

SALARIES PAID: BY TOWNS (page 217). In the Census of 1875 no return was made upon the manufactures schedules as to the number of persons receiving salaries, or the amount paid to them. If the inquiry is retained in the schedules of future Censuses, it will, in the future, be possible to compare the results with those obtained for 1885.

We present, first, a table showing for the State and counties the number of salaried persons employed during the year ending June 30, 1885, and the average amount paid to each salaried person during the year ending June 30, 1885.

The average salary paid to each salaried person during the Census year was $1,131.01. The highest average salary was paid in the county of Berkshire, and the lowest in the county of Nantucket.

In order to show the average salary paid in the leading manufacturing cities and towns, we present a table for 27 cities and towns, in each of which at least 50 persons were paid salaries.

As indicated by the county results, we find that the largest average salary paid was to 51 persons in the town of North Adams in Berkshire county, the average amount being $1,886.67. The smallest average was $695.83, for 64 persons in the city of Salem, Essex county.

WAGES PAID: BY TOWNS (page 225). The Census of 1875 contained statistics of wages paid, but a comparison between the rates in that year and in 1885 is postponed to the presentation, "WAGES PAID: BY INDUSTRIES." The wage statistics of the Census of 1885 are very complete, the idea having been to get the actual wages paid in each occupation, branch of industry, particular business, or kind of work done, for all persons to whom wages were paid in each establishment during the year ending June 30, 1885. Information was also obtained as to whether the wages paid were for day or piece work, whether to males or females, and the age periods of the persons employed.

The occupation classification given in Part 2 of Volume I. contains more than 17,000 lines, each line being the name of an occupation, branch of industry, particular business, or kind of work done. The wage returns made by the manufacturers conform, in a great degree, to this detailed classification of occupations, and the actual average wages to be presented, as hereinafter stated, will be for branches of occupations, instead of being consolidated industry averages with skilled and unskilled labor mixed indiscriminately together. There is a marked difference between wages and earnings. An employé's wages may be fixed at a certain sum per hour, day, or week; but it does not follow if his wages are $10 a week that he actually earns $520 during the year. He may be employed for only 40 weeks and then his yearly earnings are evidently $400, although his wages remain at $10 per week.

The aim of the Census office was to secure an actual average wage for each occupation, and thus secure a figure which could be implicitly relied upon. The usual practice of dividing the total wages paid during a specified time by the number of persons employed during that time, and thus arrive at what has been called an average wage, but which was in reality not average wages but average earnings, has been an erroneous procedure. In fact, in previous Censuses, salaries have been almost uniformly added in with the wages, and this erroneous method has vitiated the statistical value of wage averages. Wages paid in each occupation, for the Census year 1885, are not given in this volume, but they will be presented in the Twenty-first Annual Report of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor, for the year 1890. Minute comparisons of average earnings in 1875 and in 1885 will be found under the analysis heading "GENERAL STATISTICS OF MANUFACTURES FOR PRIVATE FIRMS AND CORPORATIONS: BY INDUSTRIES."

We present a table which shows for the year ending June 30, 1885, the number of wage earners employed during the year, the total amount paid in wages during the year, and the average amount paid to each wage earner during the year.

The average amount paid to each wage earner, during the Census year, for the State, was $351.02. Considering the counties, the largest average was in Plymouth county, $396.97, and the smallest in Dukes county, $106.79. Following the plan adopted in the case of salaries paid, we give a table showing, for 26 cities and towns, for the year ending June 30, 1885, the number of wage earners employed during the year, the total amount paid in wages during the year, and the average amount paid to each wage earner during the year. No city or town is included in the presentation in which the number of wage earners did not amount to at least 3,000.

CLASSIFIED WEEKLY WAGES: BY TOWNS (page 233). The unreliable nature of average wages, or rather average earnings, has been previously referred to. The objections urged to such averages, however, cannot be raised if the weekly wages are classified by specified amounts paid. The first table shows the whole number of persons employed June 30, 1885, and the whole number for whom classified wages were reported, with percentages.

Of the whole number of persons employed, 379,328, the males numbered 263,824, or 69.55 per cent, and the females, 115,504, or 30.45 per cent. The whole number for whom classified wages were reported was 248,200; of these, 174,766, or 70.41 per cent, were males, and 73,434, or 29.59 per cent, were females. Of the whole number of persons employed, the classified wages were given for 65.43 per cent, the percentage for males being 66.24, and that for females 63.58.

The second table shows the classification of weekly wages, and number and percentages for males, females, and both sexes, receiving the specified weekly wage.

For males, on the basis of percentages, the prevailing weekly wage is $12 but under $15, 19.37 per cent being paid at that rate. As regards females, the average wage is under $5, 34.59 per cent being paid at that rate.

The third table also shows a classification of weekly wages, and number and percentages for males, females, and both sexes: in this table the number employed at any specified wage is considered as forming 100 per cent, and we thus ascertain the respective percentages of males and females receiving each specified weekly wage.

We draw a few marked comparisons from this table. Considering those receiving under $5 for a weekly wage, we find that 38.22 per cent are males, and 61.78 per cent females. Of those receiving $20 and over per week, 96.31 per cent are males, and 3.69 per cent are females. The comparative rates of weekly wages paid to males and females are best brought out in the fourth table, which follows :

This table shows, for each specified weekly wage, the excess, both in number and percentages, as regards sex. We see, for the three lower rates of weekly wage, that the number and percentages of females receiving this low wage are in excess of the males. In the other seven grades of weekly wage, the males exceed the females. This shows plainly that the prevailing average weekly wage for males is above $7, while that for females is under $7.

DAILY WORKING TIME : BY TOWNS (page 263). In this presentation, the “establishment” is the basis ; that is, the figures indicate the number of establishments reporting daily working time, in hours and fractions of hours, for women and minors, for male adults, and, as regards Saturday, for all persons employed. A reference to the explanatory note on page 265 will show the full purpose of the presentation.

We present a table which shows, for the State, a classification of daily working time, with number and percentages, for women and minors, male adults, and for all persons on Saturday.

In 16,674 establishments women and minors were not employed, while in 1,327 male adults were not employed. As regards the daily working time of all persons on Saturday, 12,497 establishments did not make returns. Considering the percentages, we find that 10 hours per day is the ruling time for women and minors, male adults, and for all persons on Saturday. To bring out the full meaning of the table in text would require its virtual repetition, and the reader is therefore referred to the tabular presentation.

Of the 23,431 establishments, 6,757 gave the daily working time for women and minors, and the average is 9.79 hours. For male adults, 22,104 establishments gave the daily working time, and the average is 10.04 hours. For all persons on Saturday, 10,934 establishments gave the daily working time, and the average is 9.55 hours.

LONGEST, SHORTEST, AND AVERAGE DAILY WORKING TIME: BY TOWNS (page 293). In this presentation, the "establishment" is the basis; that is, the figures indicate the number of establishments reporting the longest and shortest daily working time, in hours and fractions of hours for male adults, and the average daily working time, from May to November and from November to May, in hours and fractions of hours, for all persons employed. In order to thoroughly understand the purpose of this presentation, reference should be made to the explanatory note on page 295.

The first analysis table shows a classification of daily working time, the longest and shortest hours for male adults, and the average hours for all persons from May to November and from November to May.

It will be noticed that a large number of establishments failed to report the longest, shortest, and average daily working time, but the returns that were made were from those establishments which employed the greatest number of persons, and may be considered as fully indicative of the condition of affairs.

The second table is devoted to percentage equivalents for the preceding table.

The average daily working time for all persons, from May to November, was returned by 8,901 establishments, and the average is 9.82 hours. The average daily working time for all persons, from November to May, was given by 8,511 establishments, and the average is 9.46 hours.

YEARLY WORKING TIME: BY TOWNS (page 329). In order to understand the scope and purpose of this presentation, reference should be made to the explanatory note on page 331. It is the most complex presentation in this volume, and has required a large outlay of time and money for its preparation, but it is believed that the results are fully worth all that has been expended upon them. It supplies, for the first time, for all the manufacturing and mechanical establishments in the State, the possible working time in days, the net actual time worked in days, the lost time in days, the net actual time worked per establishment in days, and the percentages of net actual time worked, and of lost time.

If we take the recapitulation for the State, on page 388, and make condensations of the actual running time in days, we secure a table that is more easily grasped than the long recapitulation in detail.

| CLASSIFICATION OF YEARLY WORKING TIME. | Establishments | Percentages |
|----------------------------------------|----------------|-------------|
| Actual running time, . . . . .         | 23,431         | 100.00      |
| 365 days, . . . . .                    | 1,060          | 4.52        |
| 308 to 364 days, . . . . .             | 1,321          | 5.64        |
| 307 days, . . . . .                    | 16,035         | 68.44       |
| 304 to 306½ days, . . . . .            | 511            | 2.18        |
| 251 to 300 days, . . . . .             | 2,092          | 8.93        |
| 201 to 250 days, . . . . .             | 803            | 3.43        |
| 151 to 200 days, . . . . .             | 790            | 3.37        |
| 101 to 150 days, . . . . .             | 338            | 1.44        |
| 51 to 100 days, . . . . .              | 344            | 1.47        |
| 50 days or less, . . . . .             | 137            | 0.58        |

The fact stands out plainly that 307 days is the prevailing yearly working time, for 68.44 per cent of the establishments report that number of days; this allows for 52 Sundays and six holidays in each year. The results relating to net actual time worked, short time, and idle time, are as follows:

| CLASSIFICATION OF YEARLY WORKING TIME. | Days                    | Percentages |
|----------------------------------------|-------------------------|-------------|
| Possible working time, . . . . .       | 7,261,587               | 100.00      |
| Net actual time worked, . . . . .      | 6,818,393 $\frac{1}{2}$ | 93.90       |
| Short time, . . . . .                  | 62,023 $\frac{5}{2}$    | 0.85        |
| Three-quarters time, . . . . .         | 13,590 $\frac{1}{2}$    | 0.19        |
| Two-thirds time, . . . . .             | 5,383 $\frac{2}{3}$     | 0.07        |
| Half time, . . . . .                   | 17,793                  | 0.24        |
| Less than half time, . . . . .         | 25,256 $\frac{1}{4}$    | 0.35        |
| Idle time, . . . . .                   | 381,170 $\frac{1}{2}$   | 5.25        |
| Stoppages, etc., . . . . .             | 44,056 $\frac{1}{2}$    | 0.61        |
| Suspensions, etc., . . . . .           | 335,000                 | 4.61        |
| Strikes, etc., . . . . .               | 2,114                   | 0.03        |

If we consider the possible working time as 100 per cent, we find that the net actual time worked was 93.90 per cent, the short time .85 per cent, and the idle time 5.25 per cent.

Of the .85 per cent lost on account of short time, the table gives the details as regards the time lost in establishments running three-fourths time, two-thirds time, one-half time, or less than one-half time. Of the 5.25 per cent lost on account of idle time, we see that stoppages were the cause of .61 per cent of the loss, suspensions 4.61 per cent, and strikes only .03 per cent.

We reproduce from page 396 the recapitulation by totals for the State and counties.

In this table, the fractions given in the columns headed "Net Actual Time Worked," and "Lost Time," on page 396, have been reduced to their decimal form.

We present, next, the percentage equivalents for the preceding table, and the net actual time worked per establishment in average days.

The State results are, that the net actual time worked, as regards establishments, during the Census year ending June 30, 1885, was 93.90 per cent of the possible working time. The lost time, including short and idle time, represents 6.10 per cent. The average net actual time worked per establishment was 291 days.

The county percentages and averages are given in the table, from which it is seen that in Suffolk county the net actual time worked was greatest, the lost time least, and the net actual time worked per establishment the greatest.

THE BUSY SEASON: BY TOWNS (page 397). One of the most potent arguments used against a reduction of the hours of labor in manufacturing establishments is the statement that during the "busy season" the establishments must be run at their fullest capacity, so that orders may be filled promptly.

It has been shown by tables drawn from the Census of 1875, if the working time could be evenly distributed over the year, that a reduction in hours would be possible. With a view of ascertaining to what extent labor was necessarily concentrated in certain months of the year, certain inquiries were incorporated in the manufactures schedule in relation to the busy season.

Although but 9,415 establishments out of 23,431 reported as to their busy season, the number answering includes nearly all of the corporations and large private firms; the smaller establishments, as a rule, did not answer the inquiry, probably for the reason that, in their case, business did not show a very marked change from month to month.

We have selected from the presentation by towns, the figures for seven of the largest manufacturing cities, they representing 3,544 of the 9,415 establishments reporting as to their busy season.

It is evident that the busy season, considering the State as a whole, is in the months of May and June, and September and October. The full-face figures show plainly that these same months constitute the busy season, with some local variations, in the seven cities considered.

SMALLEST AND GREATEST NUMBER OF PERSONS EMPLOYED: BY TOWNS (page 405). The column head-lines in this presentation have been made as full and explicit as possible. We learn from the recapitulation on page 412 that 9,226 establishments reported as to the aggregate of persons employed at periods of employment of smallest number, and of greatest number; while 11,574 establishments reported the greatest number of persons that could be advantageously employed at any one time, with present buildings, machinery, etc.

The Eighteenth Report of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor contained information, drawn from the Census of 1885, in relation to the number of unemployed during the Census year. We quote from the Report: "As the essential result of this investigation, it may be stated, then, that out of a total of 816,470 persons employed in gainful occupations in this State, 241,589, or 29.59 per cent, were unemployed at their principal occupation, on an average, 4.11 months during the Census year, the average unemployment for persons engaged in manufactures, pure and simple, being 3.90 months; in short, that about one-third of the total persons engaged in remunerative labor were unemployed at their principal occupation for about one-third of the working time."

Of the 241,589 reported as being unemployed, 167,041 were connected with manufacturing industries, and it is with this number we have to deal at the present time.

The figures used in the Report were drawn from the population schedules; that is, each person in the State made an individual return as to his employment or unemployment, stating the months of employment and of unemployment. The results drawn from the presentation now under consideration, the returns being made by the manufacturers themselves, supply strong corroboration of the figures furnished by individuals.

We find that in 23,431 establishments, 379,328 persons were employed in manufactures on June 30, 1885, or an average of 16 persons to each establishment. If we consider the returns made by the 9,226 establishments, we find that, at the periods of employment of smallest number, 177,381 persons were employed, or an average of 19 to each establishment. At the periods of employment of the greatest number, 301,159 persons were employed, or an average of 33 to each establishment. This shows that in 9,226 establishments there was a variation of 123,778 persons, or an average of 14 to each establishment. The full meaning of this showing is, that, in these establishments during the Census year, there was an average of 14 persons per establishment unemployed at some period during that time. It is shown in the case of 11,574 establishments that they could advantageously employ at any one time, with present buildings, machinery, etc., 438,229 persons, or an average of 38 persons to each establishment; this indicates that, as compared with the average shown for the greatest number employed, an addition of five persons could have been advantageously made to each establishment without increase of plant.

The whole number of different buildings, etc., is 28,586, and these supply accommodations for the 23,431 establishments.

Of the whole number of different buildings, 11.88 per cent are factories, 8.03 per cent mills, 10.60 per cent rooms, and 44.33 per cent workshops. There are 465 manufacturers carrying on business who have "no shops."

MOTIVE POWER: BY TOWNS (page 427). A reference to the explanatory note on page 428 is absolutely essential to a correct understanding of this presentation.

The first analysis table brings into comparison the respective number of steam engines, steam boilers, and water wheels, in the Census years 1875 and 1885.

As regards steam engines, there has been an increase of 1,792, or 70.97 per cent, since 1875. The number of steam boilers was not ascertained in 1875, and comparison is, therefore, impossible. As regards water wheels, there is a slight falling off shown in 1885. The second table shows the total horse power in use in the State in 1885, considered as regards the full capacity of the various engines, wheels, etc., and as regards the horse power actually used, together with percentages.

The full capacity of all the engines, wheels, etc., in use in the State in 1885 was 451,224 $\frac{3}{4}$  horse power. The horse power actually used was 365,517, or 81.01 per cent of the full capacity. In round numbers, two-thirds of the motive power of the State is supplied by steam and one-third by water.

In the third table we bring into comparison, for the Census years 1875 and 1885, the full capacity and horse power actually used.

* Steam only.

In 1875 the full capacity of the water wheels was not stated and comparison is only possible as regards steam power.

The fourth table shows the gain in motive power in 1885 as compared with 1875.

| CLASSIFICATION OF MOTIVE POWER. | HORSE POWER ACTUALLY USED |                       | EXCESS IN 1885        | PERCENTAGES |

We see that there has been a gain in steam power of 118.35 per cent, and in water power of 14.25 per cent, although, as previously stated, the number of water wheels is less than in 1875.

The fifth table shows a classification of certain kinds of motive power, not previously considered, for the years 1875 and 1885.

| Number of windmills, . . . . .                    |  | 38    | 23    |

It has always been found impossible to get a complete return of the number of men and women supplying hand and foot power in manufacturing and mechanical establishments. The figures given are, undoubtedly, much less than the actual fact. There is a slight increase in 1885 in the number of horses used to furnish power, and a material falling off in the number of windmills used in manufactures.

The sixth, seventh, and eighth tables show, for the State and counties, for the years 1875 and 1885, the horse power actually used, the gain or loss in 1885, and the percentages of gain or loss in 1885. The sixth table relates entirely to steam power, the seventh to water power, and the eighth to steam and water power combined.

As has been previously stated, there has been a gain, as regards steam power, in the horse power actually used, of 118.35 per cent.

This is the average gain for the State. In the county of Bristol the gain reaches 150.77 per cent, in the county of Hampden, 296.88 per cent, in the county of Middlesex, 154.16 per cent, and in the county of Worcester, 122.17 per cent. In other counties the gain is less than the State average.

As regards water power the average gain for the State has been 14.25 per cent. In Suffolk county the gain has been 562.50 per cent, and in Hampden county, 97.99 per cent. The great increase in Suffolk county, on the percentage basis, looks more reasonable when the small numbers involved are considered. Of the other counties, some exceed and some are below the State average.

Considering steam and water power combined, the average gain for the State in utilized horse power has been 66.00 per cent.

The most marked gain has been in the county of Hampden, of 132.63 per cent, the county of Bristol following closely with a gain amounting to 128.66 per cent. The county of Middlesex shows a gain of 80.75 per cent, the county of Suffolk 70.66 per cent, and the county of Norfolk 68.17 per cent. In the other counties the gain is less than the State average. One county, Dukes, shows a falling off. The county of Nantucket has no motive power in use.

Tables nine, ten, and eleven, form another series relating to steam power, water power, and steam and water power combined.

The figures relate to the horse power actually used in the years 1875 and 1885, the gain or loss in 1885, and the percentages of gain or loss in 1885, the showings relating to the 37 cities and towns which use the greatest amount of horse power in their manufacturing industries.

We have shown that the average gain for the State, as regards steam power, is 118.35 per cent. Considering the showing by cities and towns, as regards steam power, we find local gains that are simply phenomenal: for instance, in the town of Lee, Berkshire county, the gain in utilized steam power has been 470.48 per cent; in Attleborough, Bristol county, 586.36 per cent; in Haverhill, Essex county, 338.31 per cent; in Peabody, Essex county, 328.45 per cent; in Chicopee, Hampden county, 735.79 per cent; in Holyoke, Hampden county, 470.35 per cent; in Lowell, Middlesex county, 331.52 per cent; and in Brockton, Plymouth county, 450.00 per cent. The State average gain in water power was 14.25 per cent. If we consider the city and town showings for water power we find marked local gains. Attleborough, Bristol county, shows a gain of 239.62 per cent; Holyoke, Hampden county, 205.45 per cent; Hyde Park, Norfolk county, 205.00 per cent; Boston, Suffolk county, 468.75 per cent. It is undoubtedly true that steam is taking the place of water as a motive power, especially in new enterprises. Steam power is also put in for use in case of the failure of the water supply.

The average gain for the State, in steam and water power combined, was 66.00 per cent. The large local gains, previously referred to under steam and water power, are, of course, evident in the combined table for steam and water power as a reference to the table plainly shows.

As stated in the explanatory note on page 428 it is found impossible to obtain full records of the use of "hired power."

From the recapitulation on page 441, however, we learn that, in the State, 1,049 establishments reported the use of hired steam power, 17 the use of hired water power, and 21 the use of hired steam and water power; the amount of power used by them was not ascertained.

MACHINERY: BY TOWNS (page 443). Attention is called to the explanatory note on page 445. The first analysis table gives, for the State and counties, for the years 1875 and 1885, the respective values of home manufactured and imported machinery, and the total value of machinery. The currency values of 1875 have been reduced to a gold basis so as to enable comparison.

In the second table the total values of machinery for 1875 and 1885 are brought into comparison, and in addition are shown the gain or loss in 1885, and the percentages of gain or loss in 1885, for the State and counties.

It is seen that the average gain, for the State, in the value of machinery in use, is 53.97 per cent; the county gains can be ascertained easily from the table. The value of the imported machinery introduced into the State during the ten years ending June 30, 1885, was $2,515,260. In 1875 the value of imported machinery in use was $4,571,864. The year 1885 shows a slight increase, the value being $4,829,386.

The third table supplies a comparison, as regards 1875 and 1885, for certain special kinds of machinery used in the manufacture of cotton, woollen, and worsted goods, and in paper making. The gain in 1885 is shown, and also the percentages of gain.

The industrial facts to be gathered from this table are of particular value. We see that there has been a gain of 38.32 per cent in cotton spindles, and 50.42 per cent in power looms; in sets of machinery for woollen manufacture there has been a gain of 28.71 per cent, and in power looms 34.18 per cent; in sets of machinery used for worsted manufacture there has been a gain of 26.70 per cent, and in power looms of 28.59 per cent; in paper engines there has been a gain of 71.30 per cent, and in paper machines of 71.20 per cent.

The fourth table shows, for 23 cities and towns, the number of cotton spindles and power looms in 1875 and in 1885. No city or town is included unless the number of cotton spindles in use in 1885 was, at least, 50,000.

COMBUSTIBLE VALUES: BY TOWNS (page 455). We first present, in a condensed form, the recapitulation on pages 466 and 467.

| CLASSIFICATION OF PROPERTY.                                    | Combustible Values | Percentages |
|----------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------|-------------|
| THE STATE.                                              | $304,000,631      | 100.00      |
| Buildings and fixtures, . . . . .                              | 84,474,127         | 27.79       |
| Machinery, . . . . .                                           | 100,955,619        | 33.21       |
| Implements and tools, . . . . .                                | 14,298,711         | 4.70        |
| Stock on hand (raw and in process of manufacture), . . . . .   | 64,536,674         | 21.23       |
| Manufactured goods on hand or completed "work done," . . . . . | 39,735,500         | 13.07       |

The combined value of buildings and fixtures represents 27.79 per cent of the total combustible value, by which term is meant, not the assessors' valuation of real property, but the amount that would be claimed from an insurance company to replace the buildings, etc., if destroyed by fire. Machinery represents 33.21 per cent, implements and tools 4.70 per cent, stock on hand (and in process of manufacture) 21.23 per cent, and manufactured goods on hand or completed "work done" 13.07 per cent. Similar figures were obtained by the Census of 1875 for the use of the insurance authorities of the State, and the presentation for the year 1885, being more complete, cannot fail to be of advantage to the insurance department of the Commonwealth.

We next bring into comparison the combustible values for the years 1875 and 1885, giving also the gain or loss in 1885, and the percentages of gain or loss. The comparison is only possible in the case of buildings and fixtures, machinery, and stock on hand, for the values of implements and tools and manufactured goods on hand were not obtained in 1875.

As regards the points compared, there is a gain in combustible values, in 1885, of $32,561,132, or 14.98 per cent.

LOSSES BY FIRE: BY TOWNS (page 469). In this presentation the figures given indicate the losses caused by fire in manufacturing and mechanical establishments, no returns having been made of losses by fire in dwelling-houses, or shops and stores used for trade, etc. It is not sure, even, that the returns are complete as regards fires in manufacturing establishments, but efforts were made to have the returns as complete as possible. From the recapitulation on page 474 we learn that the average value of property destroyed in each of 296 fires was $6,513, the average amount received as insurance being $4,766. The percentage of the amount received as insurance of the value of property destroyed was very nearly three-fourths, or 73.18 per cent. The average annual loss by fire during the ten years ending June 30, 1885, was a little in excess of one million dollars, while the losses reported for the year 1885 amounted to $1,927,742. It would appear from this that the fire losses during the ten years must have been understated; this would naturally be the fact, for many establishments destroyed by fire during the ten years under consideration undoubtedly went out of existence, and there was no way in which this loss could be reported to the Census office.

So, also, as regards total fire losses since the firms and corporations considered were established, no return can be made by establishments that have gone out of existence, and the total loss reported, $17,308,943, is, undoubtedly, much too low.

DISTRIBUTION OF PRODUCT; OR, MANNER OF SELLING GOODS: BY TOWNS (page 475). This presentation shows the distribution of product, or the manner of selling goods, in 6,627 out of a total of 23,431 establishments. Although the returns cover but 28.28 per cent of the whole number, yet they represent the large establishments engaged in mechanical and manufacturing industries, and the manner of distribution, as regards sales, of the majority of the manufactured products of the Commonwealth.

By condensing the recapitulation on pages 486 and 487 we secure the following table :

Reference should be made to the explanatory note on page 491 in order that the scope and purpose of this presentation may be fully understood. It is seen from the above table that 30 days credit is the ruling term both on purchases and sales. This subject is more fully considered and illustrated in the analysis of the presentation, "TERMS OF CREDIT ON PURCHASES AND SALES: BY INDUSTRIES"

GENERAL STATISTICS OF MANUFACTURES FOR PRIVATE FIRMS AND CORPORATIONS: BY TOWNS (page 515). We have previously referred to the question of the respective influence of private firms and corporations in the manufacturing industries of the Commonwealth. The aim of this presentation is to bring into one table the general statistics of manufactures; by which is meant the amount of capital invested, the value of stock used, the value of goods made and work done, the number of persons employed, and the total wages paid, and to present them in such a manner as to enable direct comparison to be made between the respective results for private firms and corporations. The first analysis table brings out the points previously mentioned, as regards private firms and corporations, as drawn from the Census of 1885.

From this we learn that 95.95 per cent of the total number of establishments are private firms, and 4.05 per cent corporations.

Partners in private firms represent 39.84 per cent, and stockholders in corporations 60.16 per cent of the whole number of persons carrying on the manufacturing industries of the Commonwealth. The private firms have 39.94 per cent, and the corporations 60.06 per cent of the total capital invested in manufactures. Private firms use 63.52 per cent, and corporations 36.48 per cent of the total value of stock used. Of the total value of goods made and work done the private firms turn out 64.79 per cent, and the corporations 35.21 per cent. Of the whole number of persons employed June 30, 1885, the private firms had on their pay rolls 59.76 per cent, and the corporations 40.24 per cent. Of the whole number of persons employed during the year ending June 30, 1885, 61.35 per cent were employed by private firms, and 38.65 per cent by corporations. Of the total amount paid in wages during the year ending June 30, 1885, 63.31 per cent was paid to the employés of private firms, and 36.69 per cent to the employés of corporations.

The third and fourth tables are similar showings drawn from the Census of 1875, the currency values being reduced to a gold basis. The showing for 1875 is confined to the 10,395 establishments included under "Manufactures," no comparisons, as regards private firms and corporations, having been made for the 11,313 establishments engaged in "Miscellaneous Manufactures" and "Related Occupations."

Considering establishments, we see little variation in the showings for private firms or corporations between the two Census years. As regards partners and stockholders there has been a slight increase in 1885 in the number of partners, and a falling off of a proportional number of stockholders.

Concerning capital invested, there is evidently a marked decrease in the capital invested by private firms and an equally marked increase in the capital invested by corporations; this is owing, undoubtedly, to the fact that the credit capital was principally reported by corporations. The percentages for stock used show a decrease of about 5 per cent in the case of the private firms, and a corresponding increase of 5 per cent as regards corporations. Considering goods made and work done, the results show a slight falling off as regards private firms and a slight increase as regards corporations. So, as regards persons employed and wages paid; in each particular there is a falling off in the case of private firms and a corresponding increase in favor of the corporations.

The sixth table brings out some averages from the returns for 1885.

We present, as the seventh table, averages drawn from the Census of 1875, currency values being reduced to a gold basis, which enables us to make comparisons for the two Census years.

| CLASSIFICATION.                      | AVERAGES      |              |                    |

| Goods made and work done, . . . . .  | $30,176      | $310,458    | $43,529           |

As regards partners and stockholders, in 1875 each private firm had an average of 1.51 partners; this average fell in 1885 to 1.26.

Considering stockholders, in 1875 the average number to each corporation was 50.11; in 1885, 45.03, or an average decrease of about 5 stockholders to a corporation. Considering capital invested, the average capital for each private firm is less in 1885 than in 1875, while the average capital for each corporation is largely in excess in 1885 of the figures for 1875.

The total average for all establishments, however, shows but slight variation. Both private firms, corporations, and all establishments, on the average, show a slight falling off in the value of stock used; this is undoubtedly due, to a great extent, to the lower prices of articles used in manufacturing. As regards goods made and work done, in the case of private firms, corporations, and the general average for all establishments, there is a marked falling off in 1885 as compared with 1875. This is no doubt due to the lower prices for manufactured goods.

Considering persons employed, we find that the average of 16 persons for each private firm in 1875 has fallen to 10 in 1885; the average number of employes in corporations has fallen from 195 to 161, and the average number for all establishments has fallen from 25 to 16, or 33.33 per cent. Comparing wages paid, we find a marked decrease in the case of private firms, the average yearly earnings per employe in 1875 being $423.50, and $362.23 in 1885. There is a slight decrease in the case of corporations; the figure for 1875 being $342.39 and for 1885, $333.22. Taking the general average, for the employes in all establishments, the yearly earnings in 1875 were $392.82, while in 1885 they had fallen to $351.02. The Census year ending June 30, 1885, was undoubtedly, what is known as "a bad year" for manufactures. This is proven by the large number of persons unemployed during that year, and, of course, this unemployment had a direct influence upon the average yearly earnings, and, undoubtedly, accounts largely for the manifest depression shown by the figures given above.

As there is a great interest shown in the respective increase of private firms and corporations, we present a table, for the State and counties, showing the number of cities and towns having private firms only, corporations only, private firms and corporations, and those towns with no manufacturing establishments.

Considering the State line, we find that of 348 cities and towns, in the Census year 1885, 179 had private firms only, no city or town had corporations only, 166 had both private firms and corporations, and 3 had no manufacturing establishments. The figures for the various counties may be seen in the table. In 1875, 208 cities and towns had private firms only, one had a corporation only, 120 had both private firms and corporations, and 13 had no manufacturing establishments, the whole number of cities and towns being 342. Considering still further the subject under discussion, we present a table showing the number of cities and towns in which private firms report the greatest value of product, the number in which corporations report the greatest value of product, and the number having no manufacturing establishments.

In 1885, out of 348 cities and towns, 275 reported private firms as having the greatest value of product, while in 70 cities and towns the corporations turned out the greatest value of product. In three towns there were no manufactures. In 1875, out of 342 cities and towns, 280 reported the greatest product from private firms, 50 from corporations, while 12 had no manufactures. It will be seen that the number of towns in which corporations report the greatest value of product has increased 20 in number since the Census of 1875.

We present the tenth and eleventh tables of the series, showing, for the cities and counties, for the Census years 1885 and 1875, the value of goods made and work done by private firms and by corporations, with the equivalent percentages for the two Census years.

Considering the State lines, we find that in 1875 the private firms turned out 66.02 per cent of the total value of goods made, while in 1885 there was a slight falling off, the percentage being 64.79. In the case of corporations, in 1875 they turned out 33.98 per cent of the total value of goods made, but make a slight gain in 1885, showing 35.21 per cent.

This question is further analyzed in the consideration of this subject by industries, and the wages paid respectively by private firms and corporations are brought into direct comparison.

MANUFACTURES: BY INDUSTRIES.

The 31 presentations of this division of the volume cover from page 533 to page 1340. One presentation, "Number of Establishments: by Towns" has no counterpart among the industry presentations, because the town presentation includes also a showing by industries. Three industry presentations, "Accidents," "Proportion of Business Done," and "General Statistics of Manufactures for Cities and Towns: by Selected Industries" have no corresponding presentations in the town division of this volume.

The 28 presentations that are found both in the town and industry divisions of the volume have been balanced with each other, and are mathematically correct. The process has been to "post," as in book-keeping, every industry item under each city and town to its proper industry, and, in this way, the aggregates of town totals must exactly balance, or agree with, the aggregates of industry totals.

The classification of the various articles of manufacture under so called "industry heads" has been a work of evolution. Many articles, in fact the majority, fall naturally under an obvious classification, but the labor has been to consistently classify what in former years was conveniently called "Miscellaneous Manufactures." Properly speaking, no manufactures are miscellaneous, and the use of such a designation simply indicated that the work of classification had not been completed. In the classification of the manufactures formerly called "miscellaneous" many natural industry titles were easily settled upon, but, in some instances, an arbitrary decision had to be made. Reference to the articles mentioned in each industry showing of the presentation "GOODS MADE: BY INDUSTRIES" (pages 901 to 1084) will make apparent what articles have been included under each industry head. Two of these industry headings need a general explanation. Under "Cotton, Woollen, and Other Textiles" it has been the intention to include the products of those establishments that manufactured goods made of cotton, other goods made of wool, and other goods made of some different textile material, the various materials not being mixed in the course of manufacture. On the other hand, it has been the office practice to include under "Mixed Textiles" the product of those establishments that manufactured goods composed of cotton and wool, or of other textiles mixed in the process of manufacture.

One circumstance that has prevented a thoroughly harmonious classification was entirely beyond the control of the Census office. In many establishments articles of various kinds are manufactured which properly belong under two or more industry heads. To avoid duplications in the number of establishments, it becomes necessary to put these articles under one industry heading only. The obvious question is, "Which one shall be selected?" The office practice has been to settle the matter on the score of "preponderance," based upon value of goods made and work done. For instance, a saw and grist mill may manufacture "shingles" and "meal." The shingles would naturally be classified under "Lumber," while the meal would as naturally be classified under "Food Preparations." If the value of the shingles amounted to $1,000 and the value of the meal to $1,500, the method of classification, as settled by preponderance, has been to classify the whole amount, $2,500, under "Food Preparations," the $1,500 which would naturally be credited to "Food Preparations" being larger than the $1,000 which would naturally be credited to "Lumber;" that is, it is all classified under "Food Preparations," because the amount for that industry is larger, or "preponderates." If the figures had been reversed, the whole amount would have been classified under "Lumber." By following this plan, we secure a classification of the articles without duplicating the number of establishments, which would necessitate the subdivision of all the information supplied by those establishments. This one illustration will suffice for a general explanation, but a careful examination of the names of articles under many industry heads will show that classification on the basis of preponderance has brought together, under the same industry head, articles that might be considered as wrongly classified were it not for the explanations that have been made.

In 1875, but 45 industry heads were used, the balance of manufactured articles being included under "Miscellaneous Manufactures" and "Occupations," the latter designation including those industries in which the product was principally "work done." In the classification used in the presentation made of manufactures as drawn from the United States Census returns of 1880, the number of industry heads was increased to 62, but many manufactured articles were included under "All Other Industries," which title was virtually the same as "Miscellaneous Manufactures."

The present classification brings all manufactured articles under 83 industry heads, and the title "Miscellaneous Manufactures" disappears as a classification line.

In order to show plainly the variations in the classifications used in the Census years 1875 and 1885, we present a text table giving the industry heads for 1885, the industry heads used in 1875, and explanations of the changes and new classifications made.

In the Census of 1875, under the classification "Occupations Related to Manufactures," were included 180 lines each descriptive of some kind of "work done." In the Census of 1885 all these lines have been classified under the industry heads with which the "work done" was legitimately connected. Two new industry heads used in 1885, "Electroplating" and "Jewelry Burnishing and Lapidary Work" have been formed from "Occupation" lines. In addition, "Taxidermy" has been taken from Occupations and added to "Fine Arts;" "Bookbinding" has been added to "Printing and Publishing;" and "Dyeing" and "Bleaching" have been added to "Print Works" and the title changed to "Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries."

In 1875, under "Miscellaneous Manufactures" were classified 179 kinds of manufactured articles. In 1885 these have either been classified under existing industry heads or made into new ones. The table shows that 29 new industry heads in the classification of 1885 have been formed from lines under "Miscellaneous Manufactures" in 1875.

Some other changes have been made which we will enumerate. Paper and wooden boxes have been put under one head. "Mops" has been added to "Brooms and Brushes." "Buttons" has been added to "Dress Trimmings." "Chemical Preparations" has been limited to "compounded" preparations only. "Cooking, Lighting, and Heating Apparatus" has been set off from "Metals and Metallic Goods." "Bungs and Taps" has been transferred from "Wooden Goods" to "Corks, Bungs, and Taps." "Electrical Apparatus and Appliances" has been set off from "Scientific Instruments and Appliances." "Bags and Bagging" has been changed to "Flax, Hemp, and Jute Goods." "Hosiery and Knit Goods" has been set off from "Clothing." "Liquors and Beverages" as used in 1875 has been divided into heads, "Liquors and Beverages (not spirituous)" and "Liquors: Malt, Distilled, and Fermented." "Mixed Textiles" was not used in 1875. "Paper" has been changed to "Paper and Paper Goods." "Rubber" has been changed to "Rubber and Elastic Goods." "Salt" has been set off from "Food Preparations." "Vessels" has been changed to "Shipbuilding." "Silk" has been changed to "Silk and Silk Goods." "Sporting and Athletic Goods" has been set off in part from "Wooden Goods" and the balance drawn from "Miscellaneous Manufactures." "Tobacco" has been changed to "Tobacco, Snuff, and Cigars."

We see that the 38 new industry heads in use in 1885 have been formed as follows :

|                                              |    |
|----------------------------------------------|----|
| From "Occupations," . . . . .                | 2  |
| From "Miscellaneous Manufactures," . . . . . | 29 |
| By subdivision, or "setting off," . . . . .  | 6  |
| New titles, . . . . .                        | 1  |
|                                              | —  |
| Total,                                       | 38 |

In comparing industry results for the Census years 1875 and 1885, these changes should be borne in mind, for they affect aggregates to a greater or less degree. The classification used in 1885 covered all goods made and work done in the State, and it is believed that few if any changes will be needed in the next Census, unless new industries are established in the Commonwealth. The fewer the changes in classification as between two Census years the better the basis for scientific comparison, but those made since 1875 have been necessary in order to eliminate "Miscellaneous Manufactures" and "Occupations" and put harmonious classifications in their place.

PRIVATE FIRMS AND CORPORATIONS: BY INDUSTRIES (page 535). Of the 83 industries, which cover all the manufacturing and mechanical work carried on in the State, in 70 of them both private firms and corporations are engaged in manufacturing, while in 13 industries private firms only are engaged, there being no corporations. There are six industries in which the number of corporations is equal to, or exceeds, the number of private firms.

In the case of five industries, the number of corporations exceeds the number of private firms, while "Silk and Silk Goods" has the same number of private firms as corporations. The percentage equivalents show, for the industries considered, that they are controlled by the corporations.

It would obviously take too much space, if in the consideration of each industry presentation in the analysis we were to repeat all the industries. We shall, therefore, in many cases, limit the analysis presentations to 15 selected industries, representing 81.93 per cent of the total product of the manufacturing and mechanical industries of the State, consolidating the results for the other 68 industries in one line which represents 18.07 per cent of the total product.

These 68 industries represent 6,802 private firms, or 30.26 per cent of the whole number of private firms: 347 corporations, or 36.56 per cent of the whole number of corporations; that is, 7,149 establishments, or 30.51 per cent of the whole number of establishments.

The salient lines in this presentation are those for "Boots and Shoes" in which we see that a fraction of less than one per cent of the establishments are corporations, "Cotton Goods" where we find that two-thirds of the establishments are corporations, "Leather" in which more than ninety-nine per cent are private firms, and "Other Industries" where 95.15 per cent of the establishments are private firms.

DATE OF ESTABLISHMENT: BY INDUSTRIES (page 539). This presentation shows the origin and growth of manufacturing industries by industry groups, such as "Agricultural Implements," "Boots and Shoes," etc. Each city and town, in which each particular industry existed in the Census year, appears in the proper industry grouping.

A recapitulation by years, for the State, begins on page 598. In this table is shown, for each industry, the number of establishments started in each year, beginning with 1885 and running backward to 1636. Of the whole number of establishments, 23,431, the year of organization of 2,995, or 12.78 per cent, was unknown; that is, we have the date of establishment given for 20,436 establishments, or 87.22 per cent. As was stated in the presentation by towns, the establishments considered were those in existence on June 30, 1885, it being impossible to obtain any statistics or make any presentation of those establishments that have been destroyed by fire or suspended on account of loss of business or financial difficulties.

From this recapitulation by years we draw a table, for the industry called "Boots and Shoes," showing the number of firms established between 1794 and June 30, 1885.

The increase in the number of establishments, beginning with 1880, is very marked. Of the whole number, 2,366, there was the comparatively large number of 394, or 16.65 per cent, for which we were unable to obtain the date of establishment.

It would be possible to prepare similar tables for each of the 83 industries, and they would be instructive and valuable, but lack of space precludes their presentation in this analysis. They will be presented to the public, however, in a future report of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor.

CORPORATIONS: BY INDUSTRIES (page 611). The presentations made in regard to corporations relate only to those in existence June 30, 1885. We have previously stated that out of 83 industries, corporations are found in 70 of them, 13 industries having private firms only. The recapitulation by years, for the State, page 617, is a most graphic showing of the growth of corporations in Massachusetts. We would call particular attention to pages 621 and 622, showing the growth of corporations in 1880 and succeeding years. As shown on page 622, the date of incorporation for only two corporations was reported as unknown, and one corporation only failed to give the capital stock at time of incorporation.

We present a table, which shows, for each industry containing corporations, the year in which the first corporation was organized, and the number of corporations in existence June 30, 1885. These figures enable us to note the growth by periods of years.

This table is easily read and understood: for instance, if we look at "Boots and Shoes" we find that the first corporation was organized in 1866, and since that time 21 other corporations have been established. If we consider "Cotton Goods," we find that the first corporation was organized in 1813, and since that time 110 other corporations have been formed. Each industry line may be considered in a similar manner.

Of the 70 industries containing corporations, we find that in 36 of them the first corporation was organized previous to 1860, and in the case of 34 industries that the first establishment was organized in 1860 or later. This shows, as regards industries, that about one-half of the growth in corporations has taken place since 1860.

CORPORATIONS AND CAPITAL STOCK: BY INDUSTRIES (page 623). Referring to page 627, we find of the 949 corporations that 764 were established under general law, 161 by special laws, while 24 of the corporations are not incorporated. In this presentation, associations, societies, and institutions are included with, and considered as, corporations. Of the 949 corporations, 393 were originally established as private firms, while 556 were originally organized as corporations.

We present a table showing the amount of capital stock at time of incorporation, the amount on June 30, 1885, the increase or decrease in 1885, and percentages.

An examination of this table shows, that in the case of 56 industries, the average product per partner is greater than the product per stockholder; in 14 industries, the average product per stockholder is greater than that per partner; while in 13 industries, there being no corporations, there can be no comparison of average product as regards partners and stockholders.

As illustrating the influence of women in the control of manufacturing corporations, we present a table for the industry called "Cotton Goods," showing the respective number of male and female stockholders, with percentages.

It is seen that the male stockholders form about two-thirds of the whole number, the female stockholders numbering a little less than one-third. We next present a table for "Gas and Residual Products."

In this industry, the males number a little less than two-thirds of the whole number of stockholders, while the female stockholders form more than one-third of the whole number.

The third and last comparative table is for "Metals and Metallic Goods."

There are fewer female stockholders in this industry than in the two previously considered, the female stockholders numbering a little less than one-fourth of the whole number.

We bring into more direct shape, for purposes of analysis, the recapitulation, on page 653, showing partners and stockholders, by numbers only, for the State.

Reference is often made to what are known as "close corporations," that is, those corporations in which the number of stockholders is small, and the stock not being placed upon the market, there is no opportunity for the outside public to become interested in the business by the purchase of stock. A reference to the preceding table shows the extent to which such close corporations exist in the State of Massachusetts. If we consider that corporations having 10 stockholders or less form close corporations, we find that there are 399 such, with 2,251 stockholders; that is, that 42.04 per cent of the corporations contain but 5.27 per cent of the whole number of stockholders. The average number of partners to a private firm is 1.26; of stockholders to a corporation, 45.03.

CAPITAL INVESTED: BY INDUSTRIES (page 655). In this presentation, the aggregate figures for plant and for credit capital are not supplied. We, therefore, present an industry table, which shows, for each industry, the total capital invested in plant, the cash capital, the aggregate credit capital, and the total capital invested. Under "plant" are included the respective amounts invested in land, buildings and fixtures, machinery, and implements and tools, while under "credit capital" are included the loans from partners or stockholders, bills payable, accounts on long time, etc.

As regards plant, or buildings, fixtures, and machinery, necessary to carry on the business, "Cotton Goods" requires the greatest proportional investment, "Printing, Publishing, and Bookbinding" coming next in order. As regards cash capital, "Clothing" requires the greatest investment, "Furniture" coming second; considering credit capital, we find that “Rubber and Elastic Goods” has the largest percentage, “Worsted Goods” coming second.

We next present a comparison as regards capital invested for the Census years 1875 and 1885, the currency values of 1875 being reduced to gold values. We show the increase or decrease in 1885, and also the percentages of increase or decrease for the 15 principal industries.

The most marked percentage of increase in capital invested shown in 1885 as compared with 1875 is in the “Building” industry; next follow “Worsted Goods,” and “Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries.”

We next institute a comparison for the Census years 1865, 1875, and 1885, for the “Cotton Goods” industry, giving the capital invested, the value of goods made, and the proportional value of product to one dollar of capital invested, for each of those Census years.

| 1885 (with credit capital omitted), . . . . . | 91,761,531                    | 61,425,097             | 0.67                                                                    |

We find in 1865 that an investment of one dollar resulted in a product of $1.64; this proportional product fell in 1875 to $1.22, and in 1885 to $0.52. If we omit credit capital in 1885, the product to one dollar invested is $0.67; the marked decrease in the value of product as compared with capital invested, previously referred to under "CAPITAL INVESTED: BY TOWNS," is made more plainly manifest than ever in the industry presentation just considered.

STOCK USED: BY INDUSTRIES* (page 661). In this presentation, the only condensation in the original returns has been to combine, so far as practicable, those general lines which mentioned two or more articles of stock used without specification of the quantity and value of each article used. The order is alphabetical with subsidiary classifications under such general titles as "coal," "iron," "lumber," etc. The quantities and values given are the State totals of the various kinds of stock used in each industry.

In the instructions on the schedule upon which were made the returns which supply the information contained in this presentation, the manufacturers were called upon to give the most complete detail regarding articles used as stock, and were requested not to use such unmeaning designations as "sundries," "miscellaneous," "other articles," etc. The manufacturers evidently made special exertions to conform to the instructions given, and the result is a most complete showing of the articles of stock used in the manufacturing and mechanical industries of the State. In order to understand the method of classification adopted, reference should be made to pages cxxxi and cxxxii of this analysis.

A showing by industries which presents the total value of stock used, the respective values of the amounts classified and unclassified, with percentages, makes the above assertion plainly evident.

We see that of a total value of stock used of $389,757,458, the amount classified was $286,108,656, or 73.41 per cent, and the amount unclassified, $103,648,802, or 26.59 per cent. In other words, nearly three-fourths of all the articles used as stock were specified by their correct names, thus furnishing a basis for comparison with future censuses and supplying information that will be of great utility in the consideration of many economic questions.

In two of the industries, "Charcoal and Kindlers," and "Linen," every article of stock used was stated by its exact name.

Among the industries making the most complete classification of stock used were "Carpetings," 95.09 per cent; "Cotton Goods," 97.47 per cent; "Cotton, Woollen, and Other Textiles," 96.72 per cent; "Flax, Hemp, and Jute Goods," 98.30 per cent; "Gas and Residual Products," 98.59 per cent; "Cement, Kaolin, Lime, and Plaster," 96.93 per cent; and "Mixed Textiles," 96.57 per cent. In some cases it was necessary to omit the names of certain articles of stock, and put them among the "unclassified," in order not to disclose facts concerning private business.

We present, next, equivalent percentages for the aggregate values given in the recapitulation on page 834.

Considered, as regards industries, for the whole amount of stock used, 18.01 per cent is used in the manufacture of boots and shoes, 4.72 per cent in the building industry, 4.56 per cent in the manufacture of clothing, 9.40 per cent in the manufacture of cotton goods, 16.10 per cent in the making of food preparations, 5.06 per cent in the manufacture of leather, 4.94 per cent in the manufacture of metals and metallic goods, and 4.98 per cent in the manufacture of woollen goods.

We next present a comparative table, as regards stock used, for the Census years 1875 and 1885, the table covering the 15 principal industries, the remaining industries being included in the line "Other Industries."

GOODS MADE: BY INDUSTRIES* (page 901). In this presentation, as in the case of "STOCK USED: BY INDUSTRIES," the only condensation made in the original returns, has been to combine, so far as practicable, those general lines which mentioned two or more articles of goods made or kind of work done, without specification of the quantity and value of each article manufactured or kind of work done.

The order is alphabetical, with subsidiary classifications under such general titles as "rakes," "guns," "artificial teeth," etc. The quantities and values given are State totals of the goods made and work done in each industry. In the instructions on the schedule upon which the returns were made that supply the information contained in this presentation, the manufacturers were called upon to give the most complete detail as regards goods made and work done, and were requested not to use such unmeaning designations as "sundries," "miscellaneous," "other articles," etc. The manufacturers evidently made special exertions to conform to the instructions given, and the result is a most complete showing of the kinds of goods made and work done in the manufacturing and mechanical industries of the State. As in the case of "STOCK USED: BY INDUSTRIES," reference should be made to pages cxxxi and cxxxii of this analysis for information relative to the method of classification adopted. In those instances where the words "work done," in parenthesis, follow the name of the article manufactured it indicates that the goods were made for others, who furnished the materials, the manufacturer who made the return supplying labor only, as a rule. In such cases, the prices are so low that they were evidently not intended to show the value of the goods, but only to give the cost of manufacturing.

* After printing, revision disclosed an error on page 1037; the basis for ash, cherry, and walnut balusters should be "number" instead of "feet."

A table, by industries, which presents the total value of goods made and work done, and the respective values of the amounts classified and unclassified, with percentages, is given below.

We see that of a total value of goods made and work done of $674,634,269, the amount classified was $557,431,473, or 82.63 per cent, and the amount unclassified $117,202,796, or 17.37 per cent. In other words, more than four-fifths of all the kinds of goods made were specified by their correct names, thus supplying a basis for comparison with future censuses that will be of great value in the consideration of many industrial questions.

For five of the industries, "Artificial Teeth and Dental Work," "Charcoal and Kindlers," "Electroplating," "Fireworks and Matches," and "Salt," every kind of goods made was stated by its exact name.

Among the industries making the next most complete classification of goods made were "Boots and Shoes," 99.45 per cent; "Brick, Tiles, and Sewer Pipe," 99.46 per cent; "Buttons and Dress Trimmings," 99.02 per cent; "Carpetings," 99.59 per cent; "Cement, Kaolin, Lime, and Plaster," 99.72 per cent; and "Clocks and Watches," 99.64 per cent. We next present equivalent percentages for the aggregate values given in the recapitulation on page 1035.

Considered as regards industries, for the whole value of goods made, "Boots and Shoes" represent 17.01 per cent of the total product, "Building" 5.90 per cent, "Clothing" 4.84 per cent, "Cotton Goods" 9.10 per cent, "Food Preparations" 11.93 per cent, "Leather" 4.15 per cent, "Metals and Metallic Goods" 6.13 per cent, and "Woollen Goods" 4.71 per cent.

We next present a comparative table, as regards goods made, for the Census years 1875 and 1885, the table covering the 15 principal industries, the others being included in the line "Other Industries."

The most marked increase in the value of goods made is shown in the case of "Building," and "Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries." Of the 15 industries, 13 show an increase in value of product in 1885 as compared with 1875, while 2, "Cotton Goods" and "Woollen Goods," show a decrease. The decrease on "Woollen Goods" is largely due to the change made by many mills from the manufacture of woollen goods to the manufacture of worsted goods. The 68 industries, included in the line "Other Industries," show, in the aggregate, a decrease of more than 16 per cent. The falling off in the value of manufactured goods indicates cheaper production, for the quantities of articles manufactured have increased largely. The figures for 1875 have been, as usual, reduced to gold values, but this reduction does not affect the natural inflation of values in 1875. The remarks made upon page cexii of this analysis, in relation to a comparison of wages paid in 1875 and 1885, are so pertinent, to the matter under consideration, that particular attention is called to them.

The presentation of goods made, for the industry called "Printing, Publishing, and Bookbinding," on pages 1012 and 1013, and that for the industry designated as "Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries," on pages 1013 and 1014 require special explanation. In the presentation of the names of articles, etc., under "Printing, Publishing, and Bookbinding," it was found impossible to tell, in every case, whether the articles were "printed" or "published." The designations have been made as complete as the information supplied by the schedules would allow, but the indefinite nature of some of the returns rendered it impossible to state whether the values given were for printing or publishing. Of course in the case of "Bookbinding" there was no reason for any misunderstanding.

So, also, in the case of "Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries," while it was essential to distinguish those establishments manufacturing textiles, and then printing, dyeing, and bleaching them in their own establishments, from those print works, dye works, and bleacheries which do not manufacture textiles, but which take goods manufactured by other parties and then subject them to such processes as printing, dyeing, and bleaching, yet it was found impossible, in every case, to draw the dividing line exactly. It was impossible to consider one establishment as being a cotton mill and also as a print works, dye works, and bleachery, and for this reason quite a large return is made under "Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries" for manufactured goods, as distinct from those goods which were manufactured by others, and simply subjected to processes in the various print works, dye works, and bleacheries. In the recapitulation by "All Industries" for goods made, which begins on page 1036, the articles are divorced from their industry classifications and brought into an alphabetical classification, and it is in this table that State totals of goods made can be most definitely ascertained.

PERSONS EMPLOYED: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1085). This presentation gives the whole number of persons, by sex and ages, who were employed in the various manufacturing and mechanical industries on June 30, 1885. The numbers for males and females, and for both sexes, in each industry, are given in the tabular presentation. We, therefore, do not repeat these numbers, but give instead a table, showing, for the 15 principal industries, the percentages of males, females, and of both sexes, employed therein.

In "Boots and Shoes," the number of males and females is about equally divided: in "Building," the males are necessarily largely in excess of the number of females; in "Cotton Goods," nearly three-fourths of the employes are females; in "Woollen Goods," nearly three-fifths of the employes are females; and in "Worsted Goods" nearly four-fifths are females.

Of the whole number of males, 17.08 per cent are engaged in the manufacture of boots and shoes, 10.56 per cent in the building industry, and 10.25 per cent in the manufacture of cotton goods. Of the whole number of females employed, 17.15 per cent are engaged in the manufacture of boots and shoes, 11.38 per cent in the manufacture of clothing, and 28.65 per cent in the manufacture of cotton goods. Considering both sexes, 17.10 per cent of the whole number of persons employed are engaged in the manufacture of boots and shoes, and 15.85 per cent in the manufacture of cotton goods. The 15 principal industries employ nearly four-fifths of the whole number of employes.

We next make a comparison as regards persons employed for the Census years 1875 and 1885, for the 15 principal industries, showing the increase and decrease in 1885, and also the percentages of increase and decrease.

A most marked increase, as regards day hands, has been made in "Building," "Rubber and Elastic Goods," "Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries," and "Worsted Goods;" as regards piece hands in "Building," "Food Preparations," "Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries," "Rubber and Elastic Goods," and "Worsted Goods."

THE EMPLOYMENT OF MARRIED PERSONS AND CHILDREN: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1097). The figures in this presentation relate to the total persons employed in manufactures June 30, 1885, and to the employment of children under 14 years of age for 32 weeks during the year ending June 30, 1885.

The first analysis presentation shows the number of single males and females, and married males and females, for 14 principal industries.

In every industry considered there are more single persons employed than married persons. This fact is made manifest to a marked extent in "Worsted Goods," where 93.43 per cent are single; "Rubber and Elastic Goods," 85.69 per cent; "Clothing," 84.11 per cent; and "Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries," 81.99 per cent. The number of married persons is greatest in "Leather," being 43.39 per cent.

We next present a comparative table, as regards married females, for the Census years 1875 and 1885, for 14 principal industries, giving the increase or decrease in 1885 in the employment of married females, with percentage equivalents.

The increase in the employment of married females is most marked in the following industries; "Food Preparations," "Printing, Publishing, and Bookbinding," "Rubber and Elastic Goods," "Leather," and "Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries."

In 292 manufacturing establishments, 2,307 children under 14 years of age were employed for 32 weeks during the year ending June 30, 1885. The following table shows their distribution by number and percentages in the various industries:

Of the whole number employed, 10.23 per cent were engaged in the manufacture of boots and shoes, 31.21 per cent in the manufacture of cotton goods, 6.37 per cent in printing, publishing, and bookbinding, and 13.44 per cent in the manufacture of woollen goods. The "Textile Industries," so called, employed 52.05 per cent of the whole number.

A comparison between the number of children employed in manufacturing and mechanical industries in 1875 and 1885 is made on page lii of the Analysis of Part 2, Volume I., Population and Social Statistics, of the Census of Massachusetts for 1885, and, to avoid repetition here, the reader is referred thereto.

WOMEN FURNISHED WITH WORK AT HOME: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1103). In many cases, the manufacturers furnishing work for women to be done at home were unable to state the number of women so employed, or the amount of wages paid to them. This, necessarily, renders this presentation incomplete, which is due largely to the fact that the cost of manufacture is often paid first to the contractors or sub-contractors, who, in turn, pay it, in part, as wages to the women doing the work, the latter being really in their employ, and not in that of the manufacturers.

We present a table showing the number of women furnished with work at home in the Census years 1875 and 1885, and the increase or decrease in 1885, with percentages.

As was stated previously, in the consideration of the town presentation of this subject, a large falling off is shown in the number of women furnished with work at home in 1885 as compared with 1875; this decrease amounts to 12,583 persons, or 40.70 per cent. If we examine the table above we shall find the industrial explanation of this falling off. In 1875, 687 women were employed at home in the industry called "Rubber and Elastic Goods;" in 1885 this number had fallen to 7, or a decrease of 98.98 per cent; but the most marked decrease, as regards numbers, has been in "Straw and Palm Leaf Goods" where we find in 1885 a decrease of 12,179 persons, or 77.27 per cent. In both these cases, the people who were engaged in doing the work at home have been called into the factory, or, rather, the work has been called into the factory, and such of those who were employed at home, who could do so, have entered the factory, and have more employment than before. There is quite a marked difference shown in the case of the industry "Hosiery and Knit Goods;" the increase in persons amounting to 614, or a gain of 1,228.00 per cent.

A reference to page 1104 will show the distribution as regards wages. We have previously shown that the average amount paid to, or on account of, each woman furnished with work at home, during the year ending June 30, 1885, was $33.10; the average amount paid in each industry, to each woman furnished with work at home, is also shown on page 1104, and does not require repetition here.

SALARIES PAID: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1107). We present an analysis table showing the number of salaried persons employed during the year ending June 30, 1885, and the average salary paid during that time.

WAGES PAID: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1111). This presentation shows the total number of establishments employing wage earners, the number of wage earners employed during the year ending June 30, 1885, and the total amount paid in wages during the year.

As was stated in the consideration of this subject under the town presentations, the average wage obtained by dividing the total wages by the number of wage earners gives a resultant average earnings, which, though of some comparative value, has very little positive value in determining the actual amount of money earned by wage earners; for the number of persons employed is a shifting number, and the average earnings thus determined would be necessarily lower than the average earnings in any specified city or town, or industry.

We consider that reliable data as regards wages can only be obtained from classified wage tables, such as are shown in this volume under the headings "CLASSIFIED WEEKLY WAGES: BY TOWNS," page 233, and "CLASSIFIED WEEKLY WAGES: BY INDUSTRIES," page 1115, and from statements of actual average wages paid in any particular branch of an industry; but, as it has always been the custom to arrive at average wages, or, more properly, earnings, by dividing the total wages paid by the number of wage earners, we present such a table, showing the number of wage earners employed during the year ending June 30, 1885, in each industry, and the average yearly wage, or, more properly, earnings, in each of the industries. The figures given for industries are of more value than those presented for cities and towns, because, in the case of industries, there is some homogeneity to the averages obtained.

In "Musical Instruments and Materials" the average sum of $615.16 was paid to each of 3,354 persons, and in "Polishes and Dressing" an average sum of $652.58 was paid to each of 316 persons. The highest sum was paid in "Polishes and Dressing," but "Musical Instruments and Materials" represent more than ten times as many wage earners. In 1875 the highest yearly earnings were in the manufacture of "Musical Instruments and Materials." The average yearly earnings in 1885, in all industries, are $351.02.

The second analysis table shows a comparison of total wages paid in the Census years 1875 and 1885 for the 15 principal industries, and the increase in 1885, with percentages.

As regards industries, the increase in earnings is most marked in "Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries," "Rubber and Elastic Goods," and "Worsted Goods." A more careful consideration of the subject of wages and earnings is made in the presentation entitled "GENERAL STATISTICS OF MANUFACTURES FOR PRIVATE FIRMS AND CORPORATIONS: BY INDUSTRIES."

CLASSIFIED WEEKLY WAGES: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1115). This presentation shows a classification of sex, under each industry head, the whole number of persons employed June 30, 1885, the whole number for whom classified wages were reported, also by sex, and a classification of weekly wages, within specified limits, for each sex, and for all persons employed. It is an analysis table in itself.

We present a special table for "Boots and Shoes," showing the number receiving specified wages, with sex, and percentages.

YEARLY WORKING TIME: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1163). In order to understand this presentation, reference should be made to the explanatory note on page 1165. Each industry table in this presentation is complete in itself, and presents facts concerning each industry, as regards possible yearly working time for all the establishments in each industry, the actual yearly running time for each establishment, the number of establishments running part time, the specification of the amount of time lost, the number of establishments having idle time, with a classification showing whether this idle time was caused by stoppages, suspensions, or strikes.

The lost time, which includes short time and idle time, is then arrived at, and, as a grand result, we secure in the case of each industry, the yearly net actual time worked by all the establishments in the industry. The presentation for all industries, on page 1186, brings into one table the results for the 83 industries. From it we learn that, of the whole number of establishments, 23,431, the actual running time for 16,035 establishments was 307 days, 52 Sundays and 6 holidays being the omitted days. The recapitulation by totals, on page 1188, brings into comparison, by industries, the possible working time in days for each industry, the net actual time worked, the lost time, and the net actual time worked per establishment. This table is analytical in its nature, and should be consulted the same as though it formed part of this analysis. To complete the recapitulation, percentages, as regards industries, showing net actual time worked and lost time, are given.

We present a table which classifies the industries by specified percentages of lost time, and gives, in addition, for each industry, the percentages of net actual time worked and lost time, and also, the net actual time worked per establishment, in days for each industry.

Considering this table by industries we find, as regards lost time, that 2 industries show a loss of 40 per cent and over; one industry 30 and under 40 per cent; 2 industries 20 and under 30 per cent; 12 industries 10 and under 20 per cent; 34 industries 5 and under 10 per cent; 26 industries one and under 5 per cent, and 6 industries under one per cent.

PROPORTION OF BUSINESS DONE: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1191). In this presentation, by "proportion of business done" is meant the proportion that the business of the Census year ending June 30, 1885, of the establishments considered, bore to the greatest capacity for production. Of the 23,431 establishments in the Commonwealth, only 2,537, or 10.83 per cent, made return of proportion of business done, but examination will show that they are well distributed among the different industries, and may be accepted as thoroughly indicative. The greatest capacity, or maximum production, has been considered as 100 per cent, and the quoted percentages given indicate the proportion on the basis stated. The information contained in this presentation was derived from the answers to an inquiry in the manufactures schedule, that read, "Proportion that the business of the year ending June 30, 1885, was of the greatest capacity for production of this establishment;" this inquiry was intended to ascertain the relation existing between the actual business done during the Census year, and the greatest business that could have been done if the establishment had been run to its fullest capacity, but without any increase in the plant; that is, buildings, machinery, and implements and tools.

If all the establishments had answered, the result would have been of great value to the manufacturers, but, as stated above, the establishments that did answer are well distributed throughout the different industries.

The industry showing, in this presentation, is complete, and may be considered as though it were an analysis table. On page 1200 is a recapitulation, by industries, showing the number of establishments reporting the proportion of business done in each industry, and the proportion of business done, in percentages.

We present an analysis table in which the percentages are classified in a condensed form, and the number of establishments reporting specified percentages is given.

It will be seen that the great condensation, as regards establishments, comes opposite the lines “50 but under 60 per cent,” with 909, or 35.83 per cent, and “60 but under 70 per cent,” with 934, or 36.82 per cent.

We next present a table, on a similar plan, but in which industries take the place of establishments.

| CLASSIFICATION OF PERCENTAGES. | INDUSTRIES |             |

| TOTALS, . . . . .              | 83         | 100.00      |

Of the industries, 27 show the proportion of business done to be from 50 to 59 per cent, this figure applying to 32.53 per cent of the industries considered. Four of the industries failed to give any information as to the proportion of business done.

The percentage for all industries is 59.27; that is, the 2,537 establishments reporting the proportion of business done, only did, during the Census year, business amounting to 59.27 per cent of a maximum production of 100 per cent. It may savor of experimental statistics to base any estimate upon this percentage, but it may not be out of place to state that if this percentage held good for the balance of the establishments, with a maximum of the production in these establishments, that the total product of the manufacturing and mechanical establishments of the State during the Census year should have reached $1,138,239,023 in value. The point is well established, at any rate, that if the manufacturing establishments of the State did not turn out this value of product during the Census year, they were nevertheless fitted, as regards plant, to turn out goods of the value mentioned.

THE BUSY SEASON: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1203). In this presentation, in the first two columns are given, for each industry, first, the total number of establishments in each industry, and second, the number of establishments that stated the months which constituted their "busy season." In the twelve columns headed with the names of the months are figures which indicate the number of establishments reporting their busy season as occurring in the months specified. For particular illustration the reader is referred to the explanatory head-note on page 1204.

The first analysis table presents the facts concerning the busy season for seven of the principal industries. Of the 419,666 persons employed during the Census year ending June 30, 1885, 252,442, or 60.15 per cent, were employed in the industries considered in this table. It may, therefore, be considered as fully indicative of the condition of business during the Census year.

This table brings into bold relief the busy months in the industries considered. It will suffice if we take a couple of industries by way of particular illustration. We see in "Cotton Goods" that the most establishments are busy in January, February, and March, turning out goods for use during the summer months; in "Woollen Goods" there is the greatest activity during April, May, and June, in the fabrication of materials for use during the ensuing winter months.

SMALLEST AND GREATEST NUMBER OF PERSONS EMPLOYED: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1209). Attention is particularly called to this presentation which occupies but two pages (1210 and 1211). The relation of the totals for all industries, being the same as for the State in the presentation by towns, has been fully considered previously. The presentation by industries, however, enables us to bring out certain relations of figures which cannot fail to have great industrial value.

We present a table which shows the total number of establishments for each industry, and the average number of persons employed in each establishment. We also show the number of establishments reporting the smallest and greatest number employed as regards each industry, and, in addition, three averages, one showing the smallest number of persons employed, the second the greatest number of persons employed, and the third the average excess in number of persons employed of the greatest number over the smallest. The third section of the table shows the number of establishments that reported the greatest number of persons that could be advantageously employed at any one time, with present buildings, machinery, etc., and the average number of persons that could be advantageously employed at any one time, with present buildings, machinery, etc., in each establishment.

If we first consider "All Industries," or the total line, we find that in the 23,431 establishments in the State, the average number of persons employed is 16. If we consider the 9,226 establishments that reported the smallest and greatest number employed, we find that the "average smallest" number was 19, the "average greatest" number was 32, and the average excess of greatest over smallest, 13.

In other words, this shows that in the 9,226 establishments considered, 13 persons, on the average, were likely to be out of employment in each establishment at some time during the year.

If we consider the 11,574 establishments that reported that they could advantageously employ a greater number of persons, we find that the average for such establishments is 38, or 22 in excess of the average number actually employed in all the establishments in the State.

In "Boots and Shoes," we find that the average number of persons employed is 27; the average smallest 27; the average greatest 54; and the excess 27. This indicates a liability of one-half of the employes being out of employment at some time during the year. There are 1,122 establishments which report that they could advantageously employ 69 persons each on an average, which is 42 in excess of the general average for all establishments.

In "Cotton Goods," in the same way, we find that in 165 cotton mills the average number of employes is 364; the average smallest number employed was 315, the average greatest 401, and the average excess 86; that is, about 22 employes in each hundred were liable to be out of employment at some time during the year. The cotton mills must be employing very nearly the maximum number of persons; for the greatest number that can be advantageously employed in 140 out of 165 mills is 388, or only 24 in excess of the average number actually employed in all establishments. Each industry line contains figures as interesting and valuable as those considered, and similar comparisons may be made for each.

BUILDING PLANT: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1213). The subject of building plant has been quite fully considered under the presentation "BUILDING PLANT: BY TOWNS;" some additional points of interest are brought out, however, in the presentation by industries.

We first present a table, which shows, for the 15 principal industries, the respective number of factories, floors, mills, rooms, and workshops, in each industry.

The noticeable lines are the great number of factories used for the manufacture of boots and shoes, the floors used for the manufacture of clothing and for printing, publishing, and bookbinding, the mills used for the manufacture of cotton goods, food preparations, and woollen goods, the rooms used for the manufacture of clothing, and the comparatively great number of workshops used for the manufacture of boots and shoes, metals and metallic goods, and in the building trades. The industry presentations, which begin on page 1218, supply a detail table of the building plant made use of in each industry. The presentation for "All Industries," which commences on page 1228, supplies an aggregation, for the State, which enables the reader to see the specific plants made use of in our manufacturing industries.

With a view of bringing out some of the points contained in this State recapitulation we present the following table :

We find that the manufacturers, as a rule, have but one factory, one room, one workshop, etc. This class of plant represents 87.59 per cent of the entire building plant. Plants in which a number of buildings are included represent but 10.43 per cent, while in the case of 465 manufacturers, or 1.98 per cent, they report "no shop," that is, no special place in which to carry on their business.

This figure is easily understood when we refer to page 1219, and find, of this 465, that 452 are classified under "Building;" that is, the proprietors are engaged in mechanical trades and do not require any buildings for the carrying on of their business. .

It may be said here that all the plant used by manufacturers is not owned by them, and the figures given under capital invested for value of buildings do not cover all the building plant which has been here enumerated. The values previously given are for the building plant owned by the manufacturers themselves, but the present showing of building plant includes not only the buildings owned by manufacturers but those that are hired. It is obvious that the value of these buildings used for manufacturing purposes should properly be included under capital invested, but there is no way in which these values can be obtained unless the Census law is so broadened as to call for information, as regards these inquiries, from those persons who own buildings in which manufacturing and mechanical industries are carried on by other parties.

MOTIVE POWER: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1241). As was stated in the consideration of this subject by towns, the statistics of motive power given in this presentation are incomplete. The reasons are fully given in the explanatory note on page 1243.

We present, first, a table, showing the number of steam engines and water wheels in use in the Census years 1875 and 1885, and the increase or decrease in 1885.

The "All Industries" line shows an increase of 1,806 steam engines in 1885, as compared with 1875, and a decrease of 153 water wheels in the same decade. The most marked increases, as regards steam engines, are 209 in "Cotton Goods," 125 in "Food Preparations," 133 in "Machines and Machinery," 157 in "Metals and Metallic Goods," 157 in "Paper and Paper Goods," and 160 in "Print Works, Dye Works, and Bleacheries." Eleven industries show a falling off in the number of water wheels. It is undoubtedly true, in these cases, that steam power has been substituted for water power.

We next make a comparison between the Census years 1875 and 1885, considering total motive power, on the basis of horse power actually used. The increase or decrease in 1885 is shown, with percentage equivalents.

Considering "All Industries," or the total line, we find in 1885 an increase of 145,559½ horse power over 1875, or 66.20 per cent. Nine industries show a falling off in horse power actually used in 1885 as compared with 1875. The percentages of increase or decrease for each particular industry may be seen in the table. In making comparisons, by industries, between the Census years 1875 and 1885, the remarks on pages cxxxi to cxxxv of this analysis, in relation to classification, should be borne in mind.

Upon page 1249 a showing is given of the number of establishments reporting the use of "hired power:" these establishments number 1,087, and their distribution by industries, with a classification showing whether the hired power is steam, water, or steam and water, is given in the table.

MACHINERY: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1251). In this presentation the values given are cost values, even if the machinery may have deteriorated in value since its purchase. They are so divided as to show the respective values of machines of home and of foreign manufacture. The figures representing the value of imported machinery need not necessarily appear in both columns devoted to imported machinery. Machines of foreign manufacture may have been imported previous to the 10 years ending June 30, 1885, or foreign machines so imported may have been destroyed by fire, become unfit for use, or may have been sold or exchanged for machinery of domestic manufacture. More than one-third of the whole value of machinery is used in "Cotton Goods;" the next largest amount is used in "Woollen Goods." If we consider imported machinery introduced during the 10 years ending June 30, 1885, we find that more than one-half of it has been used in the "Cotton Goods" industry, and about one-fifth in the "Worsted Goods" industry. Particular attention is called to page 1255, which gives a consolidated showing, as regards machinery, for "Cotton, Woollen, and Worsted Goods, Paper, etc." The gain in 1885 as compared with 1875, in spindles, sets of machinery, and looms, has been fully shown in the consideration of "MACHINERY: BY TOWNS." As regards "paper engines" the gain in 1885 over 1875 is 410, or 71.30 per cent, and in "paper machines" 89, or 71.20 per cent.

We present a table showing the total value of machinery for the Census years 1875 and 1885, and the increase or decrease in 1885, with percentages.

The gain in "All Industries" has been $35,388,730, or 53.97 per cent; the gain or loss for each particular industry is shown in the table. In making comparisons, by industries, between the Census years 1875 and 1885, the remarks on pages cxxxi to cxxxv of this analysis, in relation to classification, should be borne in mind.

ACCIDENTS: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1257). The figures given in this presentation relate to the year ending June 30, 1885. All the information in relation to accidents given in this volume is in this presentation, there being no showing by towns. The number of deaths by accident and the number of persons permanently disabled by accident were reported.

It is impossible to state whether the returns cover all accidents in mechanical and manufacturing establishments during the Census year, but probably all are not accounted for in the table; on the other hand, a few included under "permanently disabled" were, undoubtedly, only slightly injured and were able to resume work again. Reference to the recapitulation, by industries, on page 1262 shows that there were 33 deaths and 64 persons permanently disabled, making the total accidents number 97; of these 97 persons all were males but one. The greatest number of accidents in any one industry was in "Building." Considered by counties, Essex county had the greatest number of accidents, 19; Middlesex and Suffolk had the same number each, 16, while Worcester county had 15. Considered by causes of accidents, we find that the greatest number of casualties, 22, was caused by machinery. In 15 cases, carelessness was given as the cause of the accident, but the actual cause or nature of the accident was not stated. For further particulars in relation to accidents, reference should be made to the Report of the Chief of the Massachusetts District Police, which is issued annually. By the provisions of Chap. 260, Acts of 1886, it will be found that, since the Census was taken, it has been provided that manufacturers and manufacturing corporations shall forward to the Chief of the Massachusetts District Police a written notice of any accident to an employé while at work in any factory or manufacturing establishment occupied by them, whenever the accident results in the death of the employé, or causes personal injury of such a nature as to prevent the person injured from returning to his work within four days after the accident occurred.

It will be remembered that by the Census inquiries the number of deaths and the number of persons permanently disabled were called for. In the case of the returns made to the District Police, a report must be made if the person is unable to return to work within four days after the accident occurred.

The results of the two enumerations would naturally vary except as regards the number of deaths. The results showed for the first full year of the operation of the law, during the year 1887, 23 fatal accidents. The Census returns show 33 deaths during the year ending June 30, 1885. The Report of the District Police does not state how many of the persons injured were permanently disabled; it is, therefore, impossible to make any direct comparison.

COMBUSTIBLE VALUES: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1265). In this presentation the assessors' valuation of real property is not shown. Instead is given the combustible value, or the amount that would be claimed from an insurance company to replace the buildings, fixtures, stock on hand, etc., if destroyed by fire. The combustible values therein shown include the value of buildings used for manufacturing purposes, the value of fixtures, machinery, and implements and tools, the value of the average amount of stock on hand (raw, and in process of manufacture), and the value of the average amount of manufactured goods on hand or completed work done.

The total combustible value reported was $304,000,631: as regards industries, "Cotton Goods" shows a total combustible value of $79,418,471, "Woollen Goods" $22,549,657, and "Boots and Shoes" $21,851,518. More than 40 per cent of the total combustible value in manufacturing establishments, etc., is covered by these three industries.

We present an analysis table showing, for the Census years 1875 and 1885, the total combustible values, with the increase or decrease in 1885.

It is not possible to make exact comparisons in this table, for the values of implements and tools, and of goods made, on hand and in process of manufacture, were not included in the returns for 1875. The gains, therefore, as shown, are larger than they would have been in case the figures for 1875 had been increased by the values referred to. As has been stated in the consideration of this subject, by towns, these figures are of special value to the Insurance Department of the Commonwealth, and to those parties who are interested in the subject of fire insurance. In making comparisons, by industries, between the Census years 1875 and 1885, the remarks on pages cxxxi to cxxxv of this analysis, in relation to classification, should be borne in mind.

LOSSES BY FIRE: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1271). This presentation includes a number of tables which relate to the number of fires and value of property destroyed, the causes of fires, and to inflammable materials. In the first table, which shows the number of fires and value of property destroyed, etc., the industries not reporting losses by fire, at any time since the private firms and corporations included in them were established, have been omitted.

It should be borne in mind, in considering the figures given, that the losses reported were all caused by fires in manufacturing and mechanical establishments; no returns have been made of losses by fire in dwelling-houses, or shops or stores used for trade, etc.

We present for the 10 industries, which show the greatest value of property destroyed during the Census year, a table stating the value of property destroyed, the amount received as insurance, and percentages of the amount received as insurance of the value of property destroyed.

It will be seen that those suffering losses by fire received, on an average, 73.18 per cent of their losses in insurance. In the case of "Boots and Shoes" this percentage rises to 95.00 per cent, and falls in the case of "Machines and Machinery" to 41.01 per cent.

The causes of fires were reported as regards 686 establishments which suffered losses by fire. These causes were stated in great detail but they have been condensed materially in the table on pages 1278 and 1279. Proximity to burning buildings has been a leading cause of loss by fire in the manufacturing and mechanical establishments considered, for to the 85 specifying "adjacent buildings" as the cause of fire should be added the 89 which stated "conflagrations" as the cause, and 14 due to "sparks;" this makes a total of 188 out of 686, or 27.41 per cent, due to causes beyond the control of the parties making returns, and against which they could make no provision. The various causes, in a condensed classification, are given in the succeeding table.

Of the whole number of fires, it is seen that 26.09 per cent were caused by fires in adjacent buildings, etc., and 13.27 per cent were incendiary.

We present a table which shows the principal inflammable materials, and the number of establishments reporting the use of such inflammable materials.

DISTRIBUTION OF PRODUCT: OR, MANNER OF SELLING GOODS: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1287). This presentation shows the distribution of product, or the manner of selling goods, in 6,627 out of a total of 23,431 establishments. Although the returns cover but 28.28 per cent of the whole number, yet they represent the larger establishments engaged in manufacturing and mechanical industries, and the manner of distribution, as regards sales, of the majority of the manufactured products of the Commonwealth. The word "factory" includes mills, workshops, etc.

We present a table for "Boots and Shoes" showing the manner of selling goods in specified establishments, with percentages.

Of the whole number of establishments, 30.91 per cent report that they sold goods from the factory only, while 44.24 per cent report that their goods are sold by commission agents. Returns were made from 83.64 per cent of the whole number of establishments. Similar tables may be easily prepared for the other industries.

TERMS OF CREDIT ON PURCHASES AND SALES: BY INDUSTRIES (page 1293). For the better understanding of this table, reference should be made to the explanatory note on page 1295. The presentation is in two tables, the first relating to specific terms of credit on purchases and sales, while the second, which begins on page 1304, gives the related terms of credit on purchases and sales. By "specific" terms of credit is meant the number of establishments buying and selling on specified terms of credit; for instance, of 100 establishments, 80 might buy on 30 days and only 45 sell on 30 days, the other 35 selling on 10 days, or some other term of credit. By "related" terms of credit is meant the terms of credit on purchases and sales for the same establishments; for instance, of 10 firms, 5 might buy for cash and sell on 10 days; 3 might buy on 10 days and sell on 30 days; and 2 might buy on 30 days and sell on 60 days.

State recapitulations are given on page 1303 for specified terms of credit, and on pages 1319 to 1322 for related terms of credit.

The first analysis table relates to "Boots and Shoes," and gives a classification of specified terms of credit, and the number of establishments reporting specified terms of credit on purchases and on sales, with percentage equivalents.

Owing to the variations in the classification under industry heads, as explained in the introductory paragraphs to this division of the volume, and particularly referred to in the consideration of several important presentations, it is impossible to make complete comparisons as regards each industry, but, as regards private firms, it is found, that in 1885, the average yearly earnings were higher in 3 industries than they were in 1875; in 30 industries the average yearly earnings were less in 1885 than in 1875; while in 50 industries comparisons cannot be made.

If we consider corporations, we find that in 10 industries the average yearly earnings were higher in 1885 than they were in 1875; in 19 industries they were lower in 1885 than they were in 1875; while in 54 industries it is impossible to make comparisons. Comparisons as regards those industries which supply figures for both 1875 and 1885 may be made by reference to the table.

For a final table, we bring into comparison the average yearly earnings for 1875 and 1885, and show the increase or decrease in 1885, with percentages, as regards private firms and corporations.

If we consider private firms, we find that the average yearly earnings in 1875 were $423.50; in 1885, $362.23; this shows a decrease in 1885 of $61.27, or 14.47 per cent. As regards corporations, we find the average yearly earnings in 1875 were $342.39; in 1885, $333.22; the decrease in 1885 was $9.17, or 2.68 per cent. This comparative showing, both as regards amounts and percentages, is largely in favor of the corporations. For all industries, we find that the average yearly earnings in 1875 were $392.82; in 1885, $351.02; the decrease in 1885 is $41.80, or 10.64 per cent.

This average decline in yearly earnings should be looked at in its true significance. It is a nominal decline and not an actual one. As is plainly indicated by those presentations to which special attention has been called, the Census year 1885 was "a bad year" for manufacturing industries. Owing to various causes business was dull, and suspensions were numerous and long continued. This swelled the number of unemployed to an abnormal extent, and yet every person who was employed for any length of time during the year became one of the "divisor" by which the total wages paid during the year were divided, and it being a statistical as well as arithmetical rule that "the larger the divisor the smaller the quotient," consequently the average annual earnings were correspondingly reduced. Again the Census year 1875 was an unusually prosperous one, and, considering the industrial situation for both years, it must be allowed that 1885 bore the comparison as well as could be expected. It has been said the decrease is nominal. We mean by that, that there is no indication of a decline in the real value of wages, or in their purchasing power. On the contrary, the evidence is the other way. Comparing the average value of 136 articles of stock used for 1875 and 1885, at least $100,000 worth of each article being used in 1875, we find that 28 show an increase in price in 1885 of from 5 to 40 per cent, while 108 articles show a decrease of from 10 to 60 per cent. This indicates a material reduction in the cost of raw materials used in manufacturing. Considering goods made for the same years, we find of 134 articles, of which at least $100,000 worth of each article was manufactured in 1875, that 37 show an increase of from 5 to 40 per cent, while 97 show a decrease of from 5 to 50 per cent. These figures show a marked falling off in the value of manufactured goods. We have seen that more capital is being required to conduct manufacturing business; that the margin of profits has decreased is shown by a comparison of the items of value of goods made, value of stock used, and total wages paid. If we could legitimately arrive at an average percentage of decrease in the value of articles of consumption, we have no doubt that it would show an increase of at least 10 per cent in the purchasing power of the nominal wage of 1885 as compared with that for 1875, and this actual increase of 10 per cent is the true index of the wage situation rather than the nominal decrease of 10 per cent shown by the comparison of "money wages" alone, as determined by a vacillating divisor.

GENERAL STATISTICS OF MANUFACTURES FOR CITIES AND TOWNS: BY SELECTED INDUSTRIES (page 1333). In this presentation, the total statistics of manufactures, which include the information relating to the number of establishments, the number of partners and stockholders, the amount of capital invested, value of stock used, value of goods made and work done, number of persons employed on June 30, 1885, and total wages paid, are brought forward, by totals, for 15 selected industries, these industries representing more than four-fifths of the total product of the manufacturing and mechanical industries of the Commonwealth. Under each of these selected industry heads are presented the general statistics of manufactures for those cities and towns in which the specified industry is carried on to a large extent.

In order to show the scope of this presentation, we present a table, as regards the 15 selected industries, which shows the whole number of cities and towns having the specified industry, the number of cities and towns represented in the table, the total value of goods made and work done in each industry, and the total value of goods made and work done in the cities and towns represented under the industry, with percentages.

It will be seen, by the percentage column, that, in the case of nearly all the industries, the great majority of the manufactured product is turned out in the cities and towns considered.

We next present a table which shows the value of goods made and work done, by industries, in the principal manufacturing towns and cities in the Commonwealth for the Census years 1875 and 1885. We give the increase or decrease in 1885, with percentages. Attention is called in advance to the fact that the great increase in the value of worsted goods in the city of Lawrence is not an actual one, but has been caused by the change made, by leading mills, from the manufacture of woollen goods to that of worsted goods.

We next present a comparison for the Census years 1875 and 1885, as regards objects to which devoted.

There has been a total increase in circulation in 1885 as compared with 1875 of 62,476,094 copies, or 44.07 per cent. Marked gains may be noticed in the case of the daily, weekly, and quarterly papers. The next presentation provides a comparison, as regards circulation, for the Census years 1875 and 1885, the classification relating to the objects to which devoted; the increase or decrease for 1885 is given, with equivalent percentages.

Owing to the changes in classification made both by the proprietors of newspapers and also by the Census office, it is not supposed that the classification secured is identical for both the Census years; this fact naturally affects the percentages, but marked gains are shown in the case of those newspapers devoted to agriculture, education, literature, music, and art, manufactures and building interests, secret societies, and trade, transportation, finance, and commerce. Of the whole gain, 62,476,094 copies, 53,693,724 is shown by those newspapers devoted to news, politics, and local interests. Of the whole number of newspapers, 441, 27 are bound, 297 are folded, 65 are pasted, 34 are stitched, and 18 are wired.

THE FISHERIES.

This division of the volume contains 5 presentations. Some of them contain several tables having a general relation to each other. Considering these detail tables, the topics covered by the presentations are as follows:

Investments and Products.
 Number of Vessels and Boats.
 Tonnage of Vessels.
 Cost of Vessels and Outfit.
 Years in which Vessels were Built.
 Places in which Vessels were Built.
 Number of Firms and Corporations.

Number of Persons Employed.
 Time in Commission for Vessels.
 Kinds of Fish, and Where Caught.
 Capital Invested.
 Imports and Exports.
 Markets and Sales.
 Methods of Food Fish Preparation.

As is stated in the text on page 1369, the food fish statistics are limited to fresh fish and salted fish. No prepared fish are included in the presentation. In many cases, the parties making returns referred to the fisheries falling off in their localities. These poor results have led to vessels being laid up or going out of business altogether. One person reports a net loss of $10,000 from 15 years' business, and another lost $3,000 in three years. Some state that fish are very scarce, meaning, of course, in their particular localities. The hand-liners complain of the seiners and say that the latter have ruined the business. The hand-line fishermen do not think much is gained in the end by seining, as so many small fish are thrown away; on the other hand, the owner of a pound in Dukes county says that he has had to allow his fish to escape, as he has no market for them. Many fishermen report the fisheries on the west side of Buzzard's Bay a failure in 1885, excepting as regards alewives. Quite a number declare that the fisheries will die out in their localities unless something is done soon to relieve them.

In obtaining statistics of manufactures and agriculture they are naturally and necessarily limited to returns from those persons making goods or raising products for sale. So in the fisheries, the returns are from fishermen engaged in the business of catching fish for sale. It was manifestly impossible to obtain returns from those who catch fish for their own use. A person in one town says that 200 persons living there catch fish for their own use. It will be seen, therefore, that the value of fish and fish products, as given, must be less than the value of all fish caught, or sold and consumed. The values differ greatly in different places. These variations are largely due, no doubt, to the nearness or remoteness of markets, and to the relations of supply and demand.

Exceptionally high or low quotations have been re-examined and verified. The apparently indiscriminate use of the word "scup," "porgy," and "menhaden" has caused much labor to fix upon a proper classification. Irish moss, or carrageen, is returned in two towns as being gathered by fishermen. The statistics of agriculture, also, contained returns of carrageen gathered by firms living in one of these towns. It is possible that some duplication of returns may have occurred as regards carrageen, for, in a maritime town, the occupations of farmer and fisherman are often united in the same person.

INVESTMENTS AND PRODUCTS (page 1373). This presentation is by towns. The figures relating to investments are classified under the headings of "Working Capital," "Apparatus," and "Salt and Ice." The figures relating to products are classified under the headings "Food Fish," "Fish Products," "Food Fish Products," "Shell Fish," "Whale and Seal Products," and "Other Products." A table of aggregates for each town, brings the totals of investments and products, and the details under each total, into prominence. A recapitulation of city and town aggregates, for all the cities and towns engaged in the fisheries, appears on pages 1400 to 1403. On pages 1404 to 1406 will be found a recapitulation of aggregates for the State.

We present an analysis table showing the classification of investments, the respective values, and percentages.

| CLASSIFICATION OF INVESTMENTS. |   | Values      | Percentages |
|--------------------------------|---|-------------|-------------|
| THE STATE.                     |   | $8,660,581 | 100.00      |

| Salt and ice,                  | . | 283,340     | 3.27        |

Of the whole amount invested in the fisheries, $8,660,581, 85.07 per cent is working capital, 11.66 per cent the value of apparatus, and 3.27 per cent the amount invested in salt and ice.

We present a similar table of values and percentages as regards products.

| CLASSIFICATION OF PRODUCTS. |   | Values      | Percentages |
|-----------------------------|---|-------------|-------------|
| THE STATE.                  |   | $6,462,692 | 100.00      |

| Food fish products,         | . | 2,346       | 0.04        |

| Other products,             | . | 36,074      | 0.56        |

The total value of products was $6,462,692. Of this amount, 70.66 per cent indicates the value of food fish, 19.66 per cent the value of whale and seal products, and 5.56 per cent the value of shell fish.

In the Census of 1875, it was stated that "The Fisheries" statistics were lacking in completeness, and at the time that they were put in print that was the opinion of the Census office. Viewed, however, by the light gained in securing statistics of the fisheries for the Census of 1885, and noting the results shown by the United States Census of 1880, the Census office is of the opinion that the work done in 1875 was not so deficient as it was then considered, and, acting upon this assumption, it is considered that a comparison between the results for the Census years 1875 and 1885 is allowable. Attention is first called, however, to the recapitulation by name, of investments and products, for the State, as shown on pages 1404 to 1406.

The first comparison between the Census years 1875 and 1885 relates to the value of product, the amount of capital invested, number of vessels engaged, tonnage, and the value of salt consumed. We present values and numbers for 1875 and 1885, the increase or decrease in 1885, and percentages. The currency values for 1875 have been reduced to a gold basis.

* Omitting values of salt and ice.

We find a falling off of 5.81 per cent in the value of product. There is an increase of 29.07 per cent in the amount of capital invested; a decrease of 29.19 per cent in the number of vessels engaged, 14.61 per cent in total tonnage, and 18.74 per cent in the value of salt consumed.

We next present two tables in which 13 different products are compared, first as regards quantities, and second as regards values, for the Census years 1875 and 1885, the increase or decrease as regards both quantities and values being given, with equivalent percentages.

A comparison of the two tables brings out interesting facts for each product considered. The product of the cod fisheries is 69.11 per cent greater in 1885 than in 1875, but despite this great increase in quantity there is a falling off of 28.38 per cent in value. So, in the case of mackerel, there was an increase of 56.12 per cent in quantity but a falling off of 23.24 per cent in value. On the other hand, there was an increase of 25.05 per cent in the quantity of whalebone secured, and an increase of 144.77 per cent in the value; this double increase, as regards quantities and values, is also shown in the case of herring and lobsters. Other comparisons may be made from the tables.

VESSELS AND BOATS; TONNAGE; VALUES AND OUTFIT (page 1407). The fishing fleet for 1885 comprised 866 vessels, classified as schooners, sloops, brigs, barks, steamers, and ships; of these all but 23 were registered at United States Custom Houses. These 23 vessels were all sloops, and each had a measurement of less than 5 tons, the minimum registration limit. In addition there were 5,549 boats, of various kinds, too small to be considered as vessels.

We present, first, a table which shows the kinds of vessels, the number, and percentages.

Of the whole number of boats, 5,549, 79.96 per cent are dories.

We present a table showing the kinds of vessels, tonnage, and percentages.

| Ships,            |  | 2,622.00  | 3.84        |

Of the total tonnage, 68,211.49, the schooners represent 70.03 per cent, and the barks 24.90 per cent.

By bringing together the figures showing depreciation, and the average age of vessels engaged, we arrive at the annual depreciation and its percentage of the original cost of the vessels and outfit.

These figures show that the average annual depreciation in value of fishing vessels is about 3 per cent of their original cost, being least for the whaling vessels of New Bedford, and greatest for the cod and mackerel vessels of Gloucester.

VESSELS: YEARS IN WHICH BUILT AND WHERE BUILT (page 1415). We condense the presentation given on page 1419, and give below a table showing the years in which built, by periods of years. We also give the number of vessels, with tonnage and percentages.

| Not specified, . . . . . |  | 41     | 898.82    | 1.32        |

Of the whole number of vessels, 866, there were 222, or 20.40 per cent, that were built between 1861 and 1870; 250, or 26.18 per cent, were built between 1871 and 1880; while 200, or 22.82 per cent, were built between 1881 and 1885, a period only one-half the length of those previously referred to. It will be seen, therefore, that more vessels were built in the five year period, from 1881 to 1885, than during any ten year period preceding. It is from these statistics that the average age (that is, the average number of years built) of vessels used in ascertaining annual depreciation was figured.

| KINDS OF VESSELS.    | Average Age(Years) |
|----------------------|------------------------|
| Schooners, . . . . . | 12.98                  |

| Ships, . . . . .     | 44.00                  |

The ships have the greatest average age, and next follow in order the barks, brigs, and schooners.

The vessels of the fishing fleet were built principally in Massachusetts, but seven other States contributed, Maine ranking next to Massachusetts. As regards the number of different cities and towns in which the vessels were built, Massachusetts comes first, with 35; then follow Maine with 22, Connecticut, 5, New York, 3, Rhode Island, 2, Maryland, 2, Pennsylvania, 1, and New Hampshire, 1. The wide field from which these vessels are drawn is shown by the fact that in 71 different cities and towns in the United States 845 of the fleet of 866 vessels were built.

FIRMS AND CORPORATIONS; PERSONS EMPLOYED; TIME IN COMMISSION, FOR VESSELS (page 1425). On page 1428 we learn that the whole number of fishery returns was 877. The table below shows the sources of the returns.

| FIRMS, CORPORATIONS, ETC.                    | Number of Returns |
|----------------------------------------------|-------------------|
| THE STATE.                                   | 877               |
| City, town, or village returns, . . . . .    | 41                |
| Corporation returns, . . . . .               | 27                |
| Returns from individuals or firms, . . . . . | 809               |

Of the whole number, 877, there were 41 returns that were made, in bulk, by cities, towns, or villages; 27 were from corporations owning pounds, weirs, etc., while 809 of the returns were from individuals or firms engaged in the fisheries. Of the 809 returns, 688 were from individuals, 106 from firms of 2 persons each, 13 from firms of 3 persons each, and 2 from firms of 4 persons each. The total number of individuals and members of firms was 947. These figures indicate employers, or those who carry on fishing as a business, though some may also be engaged in it as an occupation. City, town, or village returns were obtained in those cases where it was impossible to obtain the detail from individual fishermen.

The 947 employers, of all kinds, gave employment to 15,435 persons during the Census year, of which the city of Gloucester represented 40 per cent. A classification of these persons employed, by percentages, is shown in the following table:

| CLASSIFICATION.                                  | Number | Percentages |
|--------------------------------------------------|--------|-------------|
| THE STATE.                                       | 15,435 | 100.00      |
| Resident fishermen, . . . . .                    | 11,743 | 76.08       |
| Non-resident fishermen, . . . . .                | 2,933  | 19.00       |
| Shore laborers, . . . . .                        | 472    | 3.06        |
| Factory hands (indoor work), . . . . .           | 149    | 0.97        |
| Curers and packers (not in factories), . . . . . | 138    | 0.89        |

We see that of the whole number of persons employed during the Census year, 76.08 per cent were resident fishermen, 19.00 per cent were non-resident fishermen, 3.06 per cent were shore laborers, .97 per cent factory hands engaged in indoor work, and .89 per cent curers and packers not employed in factories.

Before considering further the number of persons employed, it becomes necessary to make a comparison with the statistics of the persons employed in the fisheries, as drawn from the "Population Schedule," presented in the tables of "Occupations," in Part 2, Volume I., of the Census of 1885. The number, 15,435, was derived, naturally, entirely from the tabulation of what was known in the Census of 1885 as the "Fisheries Schedule." Each fisherman, or each firm engaged in any kind of fisheries, was obliged to make out one of these schedules, so, of course, all parties, whether farmers or otherwise, if engaged in the fisheries, made returns to the Census office; so, too, the fishing firms, in making a return of a trip, might include as persons employed, very many of the individuals who had been employed by another firm on a previous trip. As a means of bringing out this comparison between the number of persons employed, as returned on the fisheries schedule, and the number of persons engaged in the fisheries as reported upon the population schedule, we present four tables, the first two being based upon the returns made by employers upon the fisheries schedule, and the last two upon returns made by individuals upon the population schedule.

From this table, it would appear that the Americans themselves carry on the fisheries, they representing 59.93 per cent of the whole number of persons employed during the Census year.

From this table, it appears that the resident fishermen, including both native born Americans and foreign born persons, comprehend 76 per cent of the whole number of persons employed during the Census year; this leaves but 24 per cent for the non-resident class, and of these many came from other States. Crews are shipped and discharged so often, that, in many cases, the employers were unable to state nationalities, no record having been kept.

We next present a table showing the number of fishermen, etc., in Massachusetts, drawn from Part 2, Volume I., of the Census of 1885.

In a general way, it may be said that the statement that 15,435 persons were employed in the fisheries during the Census year was no doubt true, but it does not follow that there were 15,435 different persons; nor does it follow, on the other hand, that the 7,980 reported on the population schedules was the entire number of people employed in the fisheries during the Census year.

If we consider the returns made upon the population schedules, we find that the total number of individual fishermen for the year 1885 was 7,980; of these, 3,834 were foreign born, 833 of them being native citizens, while 4,146 were native born; the native born and naturalized citizens, therefore, number 4,979, as against 3,001 aliens. Although the number reported upon the population schedules is but a little over one-half of the whole number reported upon the fisheries schedules, yet it is seen that the native born and naturalized citizens, in either case, represent more than 60 per cent of the whole number of persons employed.

In fact, if we consider the number returned upon the population schedules we find that 62.39 per cent were either native born or naturalized; so, although the figures vary greatly, the relative percentages as to nationality are not materially changed.

By "aliens" is meant those foreign born males, 21 years of age and over, who have not been naturalized. Those counted as "not voters" are men under 21, who may be taxed as polls, if 20 years of age, and those who have no political condition, and who were not, at the time the Census was taken, from a Census point of view, aliens. Of the whole number of fishermen shown by the population schedule, that is 7,980, there were 845 that were returned on their own individual population schedules as clam diggers, curers and preparers of fish, boat-fishermen, lobster-fishermen, whalers, etc., these 845 having no relation to the fisheries as such. Deducting this number from the total number returned as fishermen, there are left 7,135 properly representing the actual individuals engaged in the fisheries of Massachusetts, as indicated by the population schedules. It is quite difficult to make distinctions between cod-fishermen and mackerel-fishermen, because men engaged in the one on one trip may be engaged in the other on another trip, while still later they may enlist as whalers.

These difficulties in classification are often inherent in Census taking, and are found especially in the fisheries and agricultural schedules. In the case of agriculture, a farmer often employs a man for a short time, then the same man is employed by another farmer, or even by a third, for other periods of the same year. It will be seen that this man is individually returned three times and counts in the Census aggregates as three men.

When such variations occur, there seems to be but one scientific basis, and that is to assume as correct the figures drawn from the population schedules, where each individual is counted as only one person, and duplications, on account of mixed employment, are avoided.

It must be true that the 7,980 fishermen reported upon the population schedules had a positive residence in Massachusetts in May, 1885; the floating population engaged in the fisheries, having no fixed residence, but living, when in port, in boarding houses, and, it may be, shifting their boarding houses with every return to port, would, to a large extent, be omitted in the Census enumeration. These omissions might account for a large proportion of the difference between the number of fishermen shown by the population enumeration and the number shown by the fishing concerns in their returns, while the duplication caused by the employment of the same men by different fishing firms, would, also, to a great extent, account for the variation in figures.

The Census enumerators included on the population schedule all persons having a local residence in Massachusetts, and all persons temporarily sojourning in the State on the first day of May, 1885, and all permanent residents, even if absent on that day, were accounted for in the enumeration; but that class engaged in the fisheries, not having a home or permanent affiliations in the State, might, to a considerable extent, escape the enumerators; while, of this class, strangers, transients, and every one employed at any time during the year upon a fishing vessel, would naturally be returned upon the fisheries schedule, by persons engaged in the fishing interest. Whether the 6,610 constituting the difference in the two returns are native born or foreign born, naturalized or aliens, cannot be accurately determined from the statistics of the Census of 1885 relating to the fisheries.

It is well known that fishing vessels are not constantly employed. The tables on pages 1433 to 1435 supply facts as regards particular cities and towns, and kinds of vessels. A reference to page 1435 shows that the barks and brigs, principally engaged in the whale fishery, show the largest average as regards months in commission, being 11.12 and 11.33 months respectively. The ships average 10 months yearly in commission. The Gloucester fishing season averages less than 10 months in the year. The season for the moss gatherers of Cohasset and Scituate covers three months annually. Those engaged in the catching or digging of shell fish report varying seasons, as follows:

KINDS OF FISH—WHERE CAUGHT; CAPITAL INVESTED, IMPORTS AND EXPORTS, AND SALES; MARKETS; METHODS OF FOOD FISH PREPARATION (page 1437). The table headed “Kinds of Fish—Where Caught” accounts for food fish to the value of $4,109,976, or 63.60 per cent of the total product, $6,462,692. It may be considered, therefore, as thoroughly representative. If we consider the table on pages 1439 and 1440 we find that 29,501,757 pounds of cod and other ground fish were taken in American waters, 44,679,302 on the high seas, and 513,500 in British waters. Comparative figures for other kinds of fish may be obtained from the table. Considered on the basis of the value of fish caught, it is shown that, of the total value, 49.47 per cent was for fish caught in American waters, 48.86 per cent on the high seas, and 1.67 per cent in British waters.

The recapitulation on page 1442, relating to capital invested, shows, that of the whole amount of capital invested in the fisheries, 88 per cent was invested by residents of the cities and towns in which the fishing industry was carried on, and 12 per cent by non-residents. Without full explanation, the part of the table on page 1441 relating to the value of fish imported and the value of fish exported would naturally be misunderstood. It indicates, only, the imports and exports by those particular firms and corporations making returns to the Census office. It does not include dealers, and comprehends but a small part of the fish actually imported or exported.

The ports carrying on the fishing industry find a market for 40 per cent of their catch at home ports, while 60 per cent is transported and sold at other ports. The different “home ports” and “other ports” where a market is found, are shown in the third division of this presentation.

A total of 558 firms and corporations report sales in 41 cities, towns, and States, and one firm ships fish to the West Indies.

We present a table in which the recapitulation on page 1444 is put in a condensed form.

Of the whole number of firms reporting sales in places specified, 69.00 per cent sell in Massachusetts, 30.82 per cent in the other States, and .18 per cent in foreign countries.

Firms and corporations to the number of 152 made returns in relation to the methods of food fish preparation, and the kinds of fish prepared.

As we have stated, it was not intended to show under "The Fisheries" the value of food fish prepared for the market. Such statistics properly belong to Manufactures and are given in this volume in the division headed "MANUFACTURES: BY INDUSTRIES," under the industry heading "Food Preparations."

We now pass to the consideration of several subjects, concerning which information was called for in the fisheries schedule, the returns of which were not considered important enough to form part of the tabular presentations of the volume. All the information that we have bearing upon these points, therefore, is presented in this analysis.

The returns of accidents and loss of life made to the Census office were very incomplete. We have obtained, however, a statement for the city of Gloucester, showing the losses of vessels and men from 1876 to 1886, both inclusive, or a period of 11 years.

This shows an average annual loss of more than 16 vessels and 122 men. This loss is said to be due largely to the winter fisheries. The practice of sending vessels to the Banks in the winter is falling off in Gloucester. The fresh fish fleet from Boston is obliged to go out in all seasons in order to supply the large home market.

The Census returns as regards fish ponds were not full and we avail ourselves of the valuable material found in the Report of the Massachusetts Commissioners of Inland Fisheries for 1885.

The whole number of fish ponds was 133, of which Barnstable county contains 18, Essex county 14, Middlesex county 27, Plymouth county 13, and Worcester county 33.

Of the whole number of fish ponds, 133, there were 18 leased to one person, 31 to one person and others, 7 to two persons, 1 to four persons, 75 to towns, and 1 to the Commissioners of Inland Fisheries.

Considering the duration of leases we find that 25 are leased for a period of 20 years, 1 for 18 years, 1 for 16 years, 79 for 15 years, 1 for 14 years, 25 for 10 years, and 1 for 5 years. Reduced to percentages, we secure the following results: 18.80 per cent are leased for 20 years, 59.40 per cent for 15 years, and 18.80 per cent for 10 years. The majority of the leases are for a term of 15 years.

These leases expire as follows: one in 1886, 12 in 1888, 16 in 1889, 21 in 1890, 13 in 1891, 8 in 1892, 13 in 1893, 17 in 1894, 8 in 1895, 9 in 1896, 7 in 1897, 4 in 1898, and 4 in 1899. On the basis of percentages, the leases of 12.03 per cent will expire in 1889, 15.79 per cent in 1890, 9.77 per cent in 1891, 9.77 per cent in 1893, 12.78 per cent in 1894, and 3.01 per cent in both 1898 and 1899.

The subjoined table relating to the areas of oyster beds was prepared from the Census returns.

From this table we learn that the total number of acres of oyster beds is 828 $\frac{1}{2}$ , of which 562 $\frac{1}{2}$  acres, or more than two-thirds, are located in Barnstable county.

Attention is particularly called to a "Chart of the Fishing Banks of North America" which is bound in the volume just preceding page 1373, and concerning which an interesting description will be found on page 1371. Information which should be carefully considered, as it has a direct bearing upon the statistics of "The Fisheries", will be found upon page 1369. One point is important enough to require repetition. We quote: "By the Census law the Census year began July 1, 1884, and ended June 30, 1885; as this year did not correspond with the fishing year, and obliged the parties engaged in the business to report parts of two years, changes were made by which the majority of the statistics supplied covered the year from January 1, 1885, to December 31, 1885."

NUMBER OF VESSELS AND TONNAGE (page 1449). This presentation shows the number and kinds of vessels engaged in coastwise, ocean, and coastwise and ocean commerce; the number used as freight, passenger, and freight and passenger vessels; the total tonnage; the tonnage of those vessels engaged in coastwise, ocean, and coastwise and ocean commerce; and the tonnage of vessels sailing under the American flag, and under foreign flags.

Of the whole number of vessels engaged in commerce, 797, there were 461, or 57.84 per cent, engaged in coastwise commerce; 259, or 32.50 per cent, in ocean commerce; and 77, or 9.66 per cent, in coastwise and ocean commerce.

Of the 797 vessels engaged in commerce, 695, or 87.20 per cent, carry freight exclusively; 20, or 2.51 per cent, are used solely to carry passengers; while 82, or 10.29 per cent, carry both freight and passengers.

Of the total tonnage, 526,199.82, the vessels engaged in coastwise commerce represent 32.62 per cent, those in ocean commerce, 61.55 per cent, and those in coastwise and ocean commerce, 5.83 per cent.

Of the whole amount of tonnage, 65.22 per cent is represented by vessels sailing under the American flag, while 34.78 per cent is represented by vessels sailing under foreign flags.

As regards vessels, 99.57 per cent of the coastwise commerce is under the American flag, and all of the coastwise and ocean commerce. As regards ocean commerce, 71.04 per cent is under the American flag, 26.26 per cent under the British flag, and 2.70 per cent under the German flag. Of the whole number of vessels, 90.34 per cent are under the American flag, 8.78 per cent under the British flag, and .88 per cent under the German flag.

If we consider tonnage, we find that 99.49 per cent of the coastwise commerce and all of the coastwise and ocean commerce are under the American flag. Of the ocean commerce, 43.76 per cent is under the American flag, 52.61 per cent under the British flag, and 3.63 per cent under the German flag. Of the aggregate tonnage, 65.21 per cent is under the American flag, 32.55 per cent under the British flag, and 2.24 per cent under the German flag.

Of the whole amount of tonnage under the American flag, 19.35 per cent belongs to steam vessels, while of the whole amount of tonnage under foreign flags, 99.94 per cent belongs to steam vessels. The schooners have a total tonnage of 131,313.36, of which 99.92 per cent is under the American flag, and .08 per cent under foreign flags. The steam vessels have a total tonnage of 249,334.20, of which 26.63 per cent is under the American flag, and 73.37 per cent under foreign flags.

The schooners, 424 in number, represent 53.20 per cent of the whole number of vessels engaged in commerce. The steam vessels, 160 in number, represent 20.08 per cent of the whole number of vessels engaged in commerce. Of the 461 vessels engaged in coastwise commerce, 334, or 72.45 per cent, are schooners.

Of the 695 vessels carrying freight, 408, or 58.71 per cent, are schooners. Of the 20 vessels carrying passengers, 18, or 90.00 per cent, are steam vessels. Of the 82 vessels carrying both freight and passengers, 58, or 70.73 per cent, are steam vessels. Of the whole amount of tonnage, the schooners represent 24.96 per cent, and the steam vessels 47.38 per cent.

Of the whole amount of tonnage, 32.62 per cent belongs to vessels engaged in coastwise commerce, 61.55 per cent to vessels engaged in ocean commerce, and 5.83 per cent to vessels engaged in coastwise and ocean commerce. Of the steam vessels, those engaged in coastwise commerce represent 26.38 per cent of the total tonnage, and those engaged in ocean commerce 73.62 per cent.

The schooners average 309.70 tons, the ships, 1,384.89, and the steam vessels, 1,558.34.

The average tonnage of 720 vessels sailing under the American flag is 476.62; the average tonnage of 70 vessels sailing under the British flag is 2,446.57; the average tonnage of 7 vessels sailing under the German flag is 1,682.29. The steam vessels sailing under the American flag are much smaller than those sailing under foreign flags, the latter, as a rule, being engaged in ocean commerce.

VESSELS AND VALUES; FREIGHT AND PASSENGERS; EARNINGS (page 1457). This presentation shows the number and kinds of vessels engaged in the different kinds of commerce, the value of vessels, the amount owned, respectively, by citizens of Massachusetts, citizens of other States, and by foreigners; the tons of freight carried, and the amount received therefor; the number of passengers carried, and the amount received therefor; the total amount received for the carrying of freight and passengers, the average gross earnings per vessel, and the percentages of gross earnings of value of vessels.

The average value of vessels engaged in coastwise commerce is $20,408; of those engaged in ocean commerce $68,988; and of those engaged in coastwise and ocean commerce 88,242. The total value of the 797 vessels engaged in commerce is $27,910,604, or an average to each of $35,020.

The following table shows the kinds of commerce, the average value of vessels engaged therein, the average gross earnings per vessel, and the percentage of gross earnings of value of vessels.

The vessels engaged in coastwise commerce, have, on an average, annual gross earnings per vessel amounting to $15,183, or 74.40 per cent of the value of the vessels. Those vessels engaged in ocean commerce show annual gross earnings amounting to 30.23 per cent of the value of the vessels; those engaged in coastwise and ocean commerce 81.08 per cent; while for all vessels, the gross annual earnings of the value of vessels is 46.28 per cent. In order to arrive at the net profits, it would, of course, be necessary to know the expenses for coal, food, salaries, wages, wharfage, pilotage, etc.

The next table shows the kinds of commerce, the value of vessels, and the respective amounts owned by citizens of Massachusetts, citizens of other States, and by foreigners, with equivalent percentages.

Of the total value of vessels engaged in coastwise commerce, but .12 per cent is owned by foreigners; of the total value of those engaged in ocean commerce, 79.51 per cent is owned by foreigners. Considering the total value of all vessels, 50.94 per cent is owned by foreigners.

Of the total earnings of the vessels engaged in commerce, 83.09 per cent was received for carrying freight, and 16.91 per cent for transporting passengers.

We next consider the subject of earnings as regards the kinds of vessels.

Of the total value of schooners, but .27 per cent is owned by foreigners. Of the total value of steam vessels, 18.70 per cent is owned by citizens of Massachusetts, 11.08 per cent by citizens of other States, and 70.22 per cent by foreigners.

NATIONALITIES OF SEAMEN (page 1463). Of the whole number of seamen, 8,396, there are 42.91 per cent engaged in coastwise commerce, 51.23 per cent in ocean commerce, and 5.86 per cent in coastwise and ocean commerce. The following table shows the nationalities of seamen :

| NATIONALITIES.                     | Number of Seamen | Percentages |
|------------------------------------|------------------|-------------|

| All other nationalities, . . . . . | 5,261            | 62.66       |

This table is very deficient in detail. It accounts for the nationalities of but 37.34 per cent of those engaged in commerce. Of the whole number so engaged, 18.47 per cent are American; the large number included in the line, "All Other Nationalities," 5,261, or 62.66 per cent of the whole number, renders the classification of but slight value. We have seen that 51.23 per cent of the seamen are employed upon vessels engaged in ocean commerce. The seamen upon these ocean bound vessels, were, as a rule, engaged in foreign ports, and were discharged upon returning to the port where they were shipped. As the records are kept in foreign countries, and there is no person in this country who has a classification by nationalities of the seamen engaged, it will be seen that it is impossible to obtain the desired figures unless the information is obtained from foreign countries. The classification given in the preceding table relates almost wholly to seamen engaged in coastwise commerce.

TIME EMPLOYED IN TRIPS; LENGTH OF TRIPS (page 1469). This presentation shows the kinds of vessels, and for each vessel the time employed in making one trip. Attention is called to the recapitulation by divisions of time on page 1472. Of the whole number of vessels, 35.76 per cent made trips taking less than one month, while 42.28 per cent of the vessels are absent from one month to one year. A recapitulation by divisions of length, meaning the length of trips in miles, is given on page 1475.

Of the whole number of vessels, 797,170, or 21.33 per cent, make trips 1,000 miles but under 2,000 miles in length; 93 vessels, or 11.67 per cent, make trips 5,000 miles and over in length.

PRINCIPAL PORTS VISITED AND PRINCIPAL ARTICLES TRANSPORTED (page 1477). In order to thoroughly understand this presentation, the head-note on pages 1478 and 1479 should be consulted.

The information supplied is novel in its nature, and shows the number of vessels plying between ports in Massachusetts and domestic and foreign ports, the kind of vessel, the tonnage, the articles, etc., transported, the kind of commerce, the flag under which the vessel sails, and the number of other ports visited besides the one particularly specified in the table. In the recapitulation by number and kinds of vessels, on pages 1526 and 1527, duplications as regards the number of vessels necessarily occur, for the same vessel visits ports in different States or countries. In such cases the same vessel is, consequently, counted two or more times in the recapitulation.

All the vessels engaged in the carrying trade between ports in Massachusetts and other domestic ports are under the American flag. Of those vessels sailing under the British flag, 2 visited ports in Belgium, 3 went to ports in Canada, 41 to ports in England, 3 to ports in Germany, 13 to ports in Scotland, 1 to ports in the West Indies, while in the case of 9 vessels the ports visited are not stated. Of the vessels sailing under the German flag, 2 visited ports in Belgium,

1 went to ports in England, 2 to ports in Germany, and 1 to ports in Scotland. Domestic ports in 20 States, one district, and one territory are visited by vessels from Massachusetts. Naturally, the greatest number of vessels are engaged in coastwise commerce between different ports in Massachusetts. Next in order are the States of New York and Pennsylvania.

Ports in 43 foreign countries are visited by Massachusetts vessels, the commerce with the West Indies requiring the greatest number of vessels. Next in order are England, China, Canada, Australia, and Africa.

SUMMARY.

This division of the volume covers from pages 1529 to 1543, and contains one presentation.

POPULATION, PRODUCTS, VALUATION, AND TAXATION: BY TOWNS (page 1531). This presentation summarizes, by towns, the total population, the products of manufactures, agriculture, and the fisheries, with aggregates, and brings into comparison, for each city, town, and county, the returns made on May 1, 1885, to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, relating to valuation and taxation. For a thorough understanding of this table, reference should be made to the head-note on page 1532, which thoroughly explains the manner of construction of the table, and the method of making comparisons between the different cities, towns, and counties.

We present a table which shows the cities and towns ranking from one to ten, as regards product per individual, valuation per individual, and taxation per individual.

| RANK.      | PRODUCT (per Individual)     | VALUATION (per Individual)  | TAXATION (per Individual)   |
|------------|------------------------------|-----------------------------|-----------------------------|
|            | Cities, Towns, and Counties  | Cities, Towns, and Counties | Cities, Towns, and Counties |
| First, .   | Maynard, Middlesex . .       | Nahant, Essex . .           | Hull, Plymouth              |
| Second, .  | SOMERVILLE, Middlesex . .    | Hull, Plymouth . .          | Nahant, Essex               |
| Third, .   | Ludlow, Hampden . .          | Milton, Norfolk . .         | Brookline, Norfolk          |
| Fourth, .  | HAVERHILL, Essex . .         | Brookline, Norfolk          | Southampton, Hampshire      |
| Fifth, .   | North Brookfield, Worcester  | Manchester, Essex           | Cottage City, Dukes         |
| Sixth, .   | LYNN, Essex . .              | Cottage City, Dukes         | Boston, Suffolk             |
| Seventh, . | Holbrook, Norfolk . .        | Boston, Suffolk . .         | Milton, Norfolk             |
| Eighth, .  | South Abington, Plymouth . . | Belmont, Middlesex          | Newton, Middlesex           |
| Ninth, .   | Blackstone, Worcester . .    | Winthrop, Suffolk . .       | Arlington, Middlesex        |
| Tenth, .   | BROCKTON, Plymouth . .       | Gosnold, Dukes . .          | Beverly, Essex              |

It is seen that the town of Maynard, in Middlesex county, has the greatest product per individual, or $860.09. The town of Nahant, in Essex county, has the greatest valuation per individual, or $7,658.75. The town of Hull, in Plymouth county, has the highest taxation per individual, or $60.81. The town of Hull is a seaside resort, and this apparently great taxation per resident individual is paid, to a great extent, by parties who conduct hotels and boarding-houses during the summer months.

In none of the presentations of this volume have the statistics obtained in regard to "Convict Labor" been included. We, therefore, present a table which gives statistics of the convict labor performed in the Commonwealth during the Census year ending June 30, 1885.

† These "wages" were paid by the contractors to the Commonwealth for labor performed by convicts.

It will be seen that the total value of goods made and work done was $1,190,816. This is distributed, as regards industries, in the subjoined table.

| THE STATE AND INDUSTRIES.            |  | Value of Goods Madeand Work Done |

| Wooden goods, . . . . .              |  | 36,000                               |

Nearly one-half of the value of goods made was in "Boots and Shoes," and about one-fourth in "Furniture."

The care of mailing and collecting the schedules relating to Manufactures, Fisheries, and Commerce, devolved upon Mr. Frank H. Drown, Chief of Division of Mailing and Manufactures. To his assiduity and faithfulness in insisting upon proper returns, in aiding manufacturers, and in the whole work of his division, the ultimate success of the enumeration and tabulation of the statistics of manufactures is largely due, and I am under the greatest obligations to him.

Mr. Drown has been ably assisted in the arduous work of verification by Miss Margaret Shea, and it is a pleasure to thank her for her part in the carrying out of our difficult task. Thanks are also due Mr. William C. Hunt, Chief of Division of Results, for his constant care of the typographical features of the volume.

The preparation of this volume has been under the immediate charge of Mr. Chas. F. Pidgin, First Clerk and Executive Officer of the Bureau. Mr. Pidgin has worked in season and out, without rest, to complete this volume, the many obstacles in its preparation, as has been stated, being constantly in his way. To his long experience in the preparation of statistical reports and his familiarity with the statistics of the Commonwealth the comprehensiveness and completeness of the tabular presentations which follow are due, and I cannot express in too ardent terms my gratitude to him.
